

TROOPS ARE AFTER
COL. HOGAN'S ARMY.

U. S. MARSHAL COULD NOT CONTROL THE MARCHERS.

Government Soldiers Ordered to Capture the Train Stealers Before They Reach Miles City as Federal Authorities Were Defied—One Hundred Deserters.

ST. PAUL, April 25.—[Special].—Hogan's army which stole the train at Butte, Montana, yesterday, was overtaken by the deputy United States marshal today, but the officer could do nothing with the men and the government troops have been ordered to seize them before reaching Miles City.

WALNUT, Iowa, April 25.—Kelly's army is growing smaller. Shortly after it left Walnut at least a hundred men left the ranks and started across the country in various directions. Kelly disclaimed all knowledge of the wholesale desertion and asserted that he knew of but ten or twelve men who had quit, but the men in the ranks acknowledged that their comrades are leaving and the fear is expressed that the desertions will grow more numerous. Many of the men who left rode east on Rock Island freight trains and others started on the return trip to Council Bluffs. The commander professes no alarm at the number of desertions, but the rank and file are beginning to lose hope and are much discouraged. Sheriff Hazen of Council Bluffs is following the army with three deputies, and claims that several crooks are in the ranks. Three Chicago detectives and three Pinkerton men are also on the trail, and it is expected that wholesale arrests will be made at Des Moines.

General Manager Dunlap, of the Rock Island, has reached Atlantic, and will remain near the commonwealers until they reach Des Moines. The men are becoming violent in their complaints over the forced march across the country, and Kelly's authority is likely to be severely tested if transportation is not secured at the state capital. On the march Kelly was hailed by a corps of men as he rode past them, and a burly spokesman stepped out of the ranks and asked that the general allow them to take a train.

"We can do it; and we will do it, general, if you will let us."

The commander emphatically refused the request and told the men that they would ruin him, themselves and the cause of the unemployed if they took such action. There was much adverse comment on his reply and Kelly is evidently alarmed at the serious aspect the matter is assuming. The element of lawlessness in the men will, many Rock Island railway officials think, be rapidly developed in Des Moines, where the sentiment against the railroads is very strong, and it is expected that the apparent gravity of the situation will result in the massing of deputies and authorities at the state capital. Kelly expects to reach Des Moines Friday, but his arrival there will probably be delayed until Saturday.

The army reached here at noon today, and after a hasty luncheon marched on to Atlantic, where they are due at 6 o'clock to-night. The start from Avoca was made about 8 o'clock, and there the populace turned out en masse to bid them good-by. The wagons that had brought the men from Neola returned and sixty-three fresh teams, furnished by the farmers in the adjacent county, were driven into camp at Avoca and loaded with commonwealers. As the army came down the steep hill and marched into Walnut it was received with the same cordial welcome which has characterized the receptions since they left Council Bluffs. The town officials bade Kelly welcome and the townspeople furnished plenty of enthusiasm and provisions. A carload of provisions from Omaha is promised at Atlantic and the army's chances for plentiful fare, at least as far as Des Moines, are bright.

At Atlantic elaborate preparations for the reception of the army have been made and committees have been busy all day arranging details and collecting provisions. The army today gave no evidence of the mutiny of yesterday, Company C of Sacramento being apparently as loyal as the others. The commonwealers are bitter in their condemnation of Baker and his anticipated expose of Kelly's financial methods, and should the ex-colonel attempt to return to the army he is likely to receive rough handling. The men express great confidence in Kelly and are allowed to view the account books of the army whenever they wish.

Gen. Kelly was asked what he would do since the city council of Chicago had decided that the army could not enter that city. "O, you can say we have received other pressing invitations to visit the city and that it would be a flagrant breach of courtesy if we refused to call on our way to Chicago. You can present our compliments to the city council and say that we are on a legitimate mission and that the United States flag and the white emblem of peace head our columns and nobody has a right to stop us. We are not armed invaders."

Escorted by Deputy Sheriffs. MIDDLETOWN, Md., April 25.—The escort of deputy sheriffs promised by the Frederick county authorities met the commonweal at Bolivar Heights today just after they passed through Turner's Gap. The deputies were all armed and mounted, making a formidable array. The army marched by in silence. Browne being at the head of the line. The escort will accompany the army to the county line. The people declare that it is a needless expense and are indignant about it.

Will Soon Leave San Francisco. SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., April 25.—The city trustees have appointed a committee to see what could be done toward getting the 300 commonwealers started out of the city. Citizens have been providing them well with food and the leader, Col. Inman, now has nearly $200 in cash. Employed mechanic have called a public meeting to consider the matter of raising money enough to pay the army's fare to Ogden.

Coxey's Force Is Growing. BOONSBORO, Md., April 25.—The commonweal started this morning on their long day's march toward Frederick. The route was over the historic battle ground of South mountain, which almost overshadowed the camp. Sheriff Herbert, who has been with the army since it left Hancock, accompanied the party to the Frederick line. The commonweal was larger at the start than at any time since leaving Massillon, 300 men being in line.

Coxeyism Growing in Chicago. CHICAGO, April 25.—Coxeyism is growing rapidly in Chicago. A mass-meeting was held to-day and company officers were elected. The Chicago commonwealers will start on their trip to Washington Saturday morning, according to their present plans. Many contributions of food have been tendered to the army, the leaders say. The women's auxiliary of the Coxey commonweal met this afternoon to arrange for permanent headquarters.

Given American Flags. BALTIMORE, Md., April 25.—After two days' rest in Baltimore, Jones' Pennsylvania brigade of Coxey's army resumed its march to-day. A dozen recruits joined the column at this point, swelling the number to thirty. Provisions sufficient to last several days were donated. A Grand Army soldier presented each member with a flag.

The Massachusetts Delegation. SOUTH ATTLEBORO, Mass., April 25.—The third day's march of the "Massachusetts industrial delegation" was taken up after a night passed peacefully on the hay in the loft of the town poor farm. Breakfast was served by the citizens.

New England on the Way. PAWTUCKET, R. I., April 25.—The New England division of Coxey's army reached this city at 11 o'clock to-day in good condition. The men were cheerful and did not appear worried.

WILL SCORE JENKINS. Milwaukee Jurist Will Be Lucky If He Escapes Impeachment.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—"If Judge Jenkins remains on the bench it will be after the closest call he's ever had," said one of the most prominent members of the judiciary committee. The Boatner report was not submitted to-day. Mr. Boatner did not get the testimony till Friday and there was too much of it to examine and write a report upon in time for the meeting. He expects to submit it to the subcommittee to-morrow, however, and have it all ready for the full committee at its Friday meeting. Should it result in Judge Jenkins' impeachment no one need be surprised.

GOV. WAITE'S LATEST MOVE Penitentiary Commissioners Summoned to Answer Serious Charges.

DENVER, Colo., April 25.—Gov. Waite has summoned Penitentiary Commissioners Charles Boettcher and F. A. Reynolds to appear before him on April 30 for trial on charges of having unlawfully employed W. H. Loar as a detective, and with having transferred prisoners from the penitentiary to the reformatory and then releasing them on parole. The governor desires to be rid of these commissioners, as they blocked his attempt to remove Warden McLister of the penitentiary.

COKE STRIKE SPREADS.

Men Quit Work at a Dozen Plants and More Will Follow To-Day.

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., April 25.—The prediction of the labor leaders that the entire region will be out in a day or two is being fulfilled. The men at a dozen works have laid down their tools, while at many other plants part of the men went out and others will follow to-day. No violence has occurred yet, but a feeling of uneasiness prevails and preparations are being made to protect the plants in the event of a repetition of the disorder of two weeks ago.

Frank Hatton Stricken.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Frank Hatton, one of the proprietors and editors of the Washington Post, was stricken with total paralysis yesterday while at work at his desk and has been removed to the emergency hospital. The attack is very serious.

Convicted of Stealing $400,000.

HELENA, Mont., April 25.—Henry F. Bachelor, president of the Stock Growers' National bank of Miles City, was found guilty in the United States court of wilful misappropriation of $400,000 of the funds of the bank while its president by loaning it to himself individually.

MOBS ON THE MARCH
AT CONNELLSVILLE

STRIKE IS SPREADING AND EXCITEMENT RUNS HIGH

Coal Miners Maintain their Position and Secretary McBryde Encouraged by the Situation in Illinois—Enthusiasm Manifested—Labor Situation Through the Country.

COLUMBUS, Pa. April 25. [Special].—The Connellsville strike is spreading and mobs are again marching while the excitement increases. National Secretary Pat McBryde of the United Mine Workers returned yesterday from Illinois, and was enthusiastic over the treatment accorded him in the Streator district. Two monster meetings were held, and at the conclusion of his address the miners said their course was plain and they would join in the suspension. Over three thousand are out in the district, when it was claimed that little could be expected of the Illinois miners. On learning that Secretary McBryde was to leave for Columbus, the miners at a small point three miles from Streator asked him to stay over Sunday and address their meeting. The crowd which assembled was so great that no hall could hold them, and securing a table, the meeting was held on the "prairie." President McBryde is in receipt of a letter from Col. W. P. Rend of Chicago suggesting a conference of operators and miners' officials to consider the suspension now on in practically all the coal mines of the country. President McBryde has his letter under advisement and will make public his reply when formulated.

Reports received at the national headquarters indicate that the suspension is more general and that a complete shutdown will occur.

The indications are that as a result of the Kansas-Missouri convention held at Higginsville, Mo., the miners of Iowa, Kansas, Arkansas, Missouri, Colorado and the Indian territory, which constitute a competitive district, will soon be out and for the first time acting in concert. All of Missouri, except Rich Hill, is idle. Secretary Chambers of the Colorado miners writes that 1,500 miners of Sopris and vicinity are out and expects others to soon follow. This is the Canon City district, the leading coal section of Colorado.

Charles Call and T. W. Davis send word that Monongahela miners are out and a mass meeting to-day will settle the entire Fairmount district. The men work in Senator Camden's mine and it was entirely unexpected to hear that they had gone out, as the organization has no foothold there. At Coketon the miners, 450 in number, are all out. A telegram from Davis, W. Va., asks that an organizer be sent at once, as 350 miners are waiting to be organized. This is another field where the United Mine Workers has had no organization.

President McBryde says that the accessions were coming in so fast that he had stopped making estimates, and in regard to the Connellsville cokeworkers, said it looked much like the coke workers would also join.

Advices from the Hocking Valley say the fire in the Monday mine still rages and that the idle men at Nelsonville, Straitsville, and Corning have been put to work on the streets with promise of work all summer.

THREATEN TO TIE UP RAILROADS

Striking Coal Miners at Pittsburg Have a Plan for Trouble.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 24.—The striking coal miners threaten to tie up the railroads running out of Pittsburg and bring the strike to a sudden termination. At a mass meeting of the 3,200 diggers employed in the mines on both sides of the Kiskiminetas river at Leechburg yesterday it was decided to join the strike. All the mines along the Pittsburg, Fort Wayne & Chicago road are idle. If the strike continues any length of time the Pennsylvania company will have considerable difficulty securing coal for its locomotives. Over a dozen operators have signified their desire to sign the scale and resume work. The officials of the district will not recognize them until the employers decide to meet in inter-state conference.

LASALLE, Ill., April 25.—No miners are at work in either the Peru, Oglesby or LaSalle mines and there has been no disorder. It is probable the men will not now attempt to work. The committee sent to Toluca has not yet succeeded in getting the men there to quit work and serious trouble may yet result at that point.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 25.—A delegate convention of United Mine Workers of Illinois was held here yesterday and state officers elected. The action of the national convention at Columbus, Ohio, in calling for a general strike was heartily endorsed.

ASSUMPTION, Ill., April 25.—Half the coal miners here have gone to work again. It is thought the rest will resume work soon.

DANVILLE, Ill., April 25.—Miners working strip banks voted unanimously to suspend operations.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 25.—While the bituminous coal operators of the state say there is four or five weeks' supply of coal on hand in this territory, already there are indications that the railroad companies and the manufacturing companies are scrambling for what is in sight.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 25.—The first result of the soft coal miners' strike is beginning to be felt.

LONDON OFFICERS
NIPPED THE PLOT

AUTHORITIES ARREST TWO DYNAMITERS.

Anarchist Polti Said to Have Turned Informer—His Former Companions May Kill Him—English Ministry Divided on Labor Question—Paris Madman Causes a Panic.

LONDON, April 25.—Polti and Ferrara, the Italian anarchists, were again brought up at Bow street police court to-day. The greatest precautions were taken by the authorities in order to prevent a bomb explosion, every person approaching the neighborhood being closely scrutinized. The anarchists are convinced that Polti has informed the police of everything he knows in connection with them and their plots.

In the police court documents in Polti's handwriting were read, showing that he intended to commit a dynamite outrage on May 10, and Polti himself expected to meet his death upon that date. The prisoner had written farewell letters to his parents and others, dated May 16. These documents were found at the prisoner's lodgings. Both of the prisoners were remanded.

Blessed by the Pope.

ROME, April 25.—The last section of the Spanish pilgrims who came to this city in honor of the beatification of Juan d'Avila Diego of Cadiz, numbering 5,000 persons, assembled in St. Peter's this morning. The pope celebrated mass and then blessed the pilgrims previous to their return to Spain.

Rosebery Promises Naught.

LONDON, April 25.—A deputation of coal mine owners called upon Lord Rosebery to-day to present their reasons for opposing the eight-hour bill. The premier said he could promise nothing definite as to the action of the government, as the ministry was not unanimous on the subject.

Madman Causes a Panic.

PARIS, April 25.—In the church of Notre Dame, a man supposed to be insane, who was among the crowd of worshippers, suddenly drew a revolver and fired four shots. The firing caused a panic in the church and many women and children were injured. The man was arrested.

Kadambare Is Captured.

PARIS, April 25.—A telegram received here from the Congo states says that Lieut. Lothaire, at the head of a detachment of state troops, has captured Kadambare, between Lake Tanganyika and Manyema.

Cholera at Lisbon.

LISBON, April 25.—During the twenty-four hours ending yesterday evening there were 104 cases and three deaths from cholera reported here. The Portuguese government has stopped all telegraphic messages.

Must Give Up Their Ships.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 25.—A law has been prepared compelling the owners of all Russian vessels to place them at the disposal of the government in time of war if demanded.

Exiled to Siberia.

WARSAW, April 25.—Of the 213 persons arrested here last week for taking part in the Kilinski centennial celebration 209 have been sent to Siberia.

Frye's Army Still at Terre Haute.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind., April 25.—Gen. Frye's army tried to leave town yesterday on a Vandalia freight train. Frye chartered a car to Brazil for his wagon and horses and the 200 men climbed on the train as it started away. There was a hitch between the army and the railroad company and the train went off without them. They then took possession of the 7:30 p. m. freight train going east and as they refused to get off the train was run back and abandoned under orders of the trainmaster. Frye obtained some money here and sixty recruits, and says from now on he will buy a big tent and charge spectators an admission fee at towns along the route.

Death in a Gasoline Explosion.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., April 25.—Reports from Carondelet state that gasoline exploded in the house of Casimir Miggs, a farmer living on the Old Military road, south of there, completely destroying the building. Mrs. Miggs and Eleanor, a 2-year-old daughter, were killed, and Mr. Miggs' father and mother and another child named Rose were fatally injured.

MILLS ON THE WILSON BILL.

Does Not Suit the Senator, but He Will Vote for It as a Party Measure.

WASHINGTON, April 24.—After the morning hour yesterday the tariff bill was laid before the senate and Mills of Texas, was recognized. There was a good attendance in the galleries and a number of representatives were present, this being the last day of debate on the bill as a whole. Senator Mills opened by saying that the bill did not entirely meet his approval. But all legislation was necessarily a compromise. He might offer some amendments. But if they were rejected he should vote for the bill. It was a party measure and he believed every democrat should sink his own preferences thus far. He would, he said, have levied a duty on coffee, tea and sugar. The democratic theory was that government should insure to every man the enjoyment of every natural right. He should have put on the free list all articles that require manufacture for consumption. If that were not sufficient, he should have put a tax on accumulated wealth. All obstacles in the way of employment of labor should be stricken down. The policy of protection, he argued, had failed to build up a home market for agriculture.

Mr. Mills devoted a large part of his speech to the defense of the income tax. "I would like to know," he said, "on what principle the owners of millions insist they should not be taxed." He said that opponents of the tax said it was inquisitorial, anarchistic, socialistic to lay a tax of 2 per cent on incomes, but when a poor fellow wants a shirt and is taxed 100 per cent for it nothing is said about its being socialistic and anarchistic. It was said the income tax was unjust and iniquitous, and the senator from New York (Mr. Hill) had called it by all kinds of vile names, yet when he was governor of the state of New York for six years he had never told the legislature that the income tax which was on the statute books of the state was unjust and iniquitous. The law was going to be passed, he declared emphatically, if not by this congress, then by the next.

The forcible way in which the senator made this statement elicited applause from the galleries, which was checked by the gavel of the presiding officer.

"Mr. President," continued the senator, "we must not only pass this bill, but we must stop talking about it. I do not care whether the traditions of this body are observed or not. I am in favor of limiting debate. In the early days of the country there was no such thing as filibustering, but it is here now in full force. I say that if forty-four senators on this side of the chamber and the forty-fifth in the presiding officer's chair were of the same opinion as I they would pass this bill in forty-eight hours."

The close of Mr. Mills' speech was greeted by a hearty round of applause from the galleries, and his democratic colleagues crowded around him to extend their congratulations.

After an executive session, the senate adjourned.

BIG FIRE AT FRANKLIN, IND.

Flouring Mill and Elevator Burns—Whole City Threatened.

FRANKLIN, Ind., April 25.—At 1 o'clock this morning the large flouring mill and elevator of C. W. McDaniel is burning and will be totally destroyed. Loss $50,000. McLaughlin's planing mill and the Merchants' hotel are in danger and will probably be consumed with several other buildings. Loss may reach $100,000.

New Pension Law.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The house committee on invalid pensions has decided to report favorably a bill providing that in the establishment of claims for pensions the oath of a private or of a non-commissioned officer shall not have any less weight than if such witnesses had served as a commissioned officer. The present practice of the department accords to the testimony of a commissioned officer the same weight as to that of two private.

Northern Pacific Men May Go Out.

HELENA, Mont., April 25.—It is current talk here among railroad men that unless J. M. Hill of the Great Northern makes terms with his men now on strike by to-night all of the trainmen on the Northern Pacific will go out. There can be no doubt about the men here expecting orders from their chiefs to strike if the conference has not done something definitely by that time.

Tilemill Blown Up.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., April 25.—The large boiler in Houser & Foust's tilemills, located eight miles east of here exploded this afternoon killing Arthur Anson, an employee, and seriously injuring both proprietors. Houser can not recover. The entire mill was blown to atoms and the loss of property is great.

Delegates for Senator Cullom.

ANNA, Ill., April 25.—The Jones county republican convention chose five delegates to the Illinois state convention. They were uninstructed, but are for Cullom. Resolutions condemning the present administration were adopted.

Suburban Handicap Declarations.

NEW YORK, April 25.—The following horses have been declared from the Suburban handicap: Helen Nicholas, Hyderabad, Nero, Pessarar, Rainbow, Senator Grady, Sleipner, Sykeston and Sydenham.

A JEALOUS PRIEST
COMMITTS MURDER

MARY GILMARTIN KILLED BY FATHER O'GRADY.

Victim Fell Dead and Her Slayer Attempts Suicide in the Jail But Is Prevented From Accomplishing His Purpose—Shot On Her Way to Work.

CINCINNATI, O., April 25.—[Special].—Mary Gilmartin was shot and instantly killed while going to work this morning by Father Dominick O'Grady, a Catholic priest. Jealousy was the cause and O'Grady attempted to poison himself in his cell but was frustrated.

POSTOFFICE BILL PASSED.

Amendment Favorable to Cheap Library Publications Knocked Out.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Mr. Hepburn (rep., Iowa) still persists in his determination to force consideration of pension bills reported from the Friday night session. Again at the opening of the session of the house yesterday he objected to the approval of the journal and forced a roll call, but the journal was approved, 233 to 0.

An interesting little row was precipitated by Mr. Bartholdt (rep., Mo.) who claimed the floor as a question of privilege and sent to the clerk's desk to have read a series of resolutions passed at a mass meeting in St. Louis, Mo., last Saturday declaring Charles F. Joy to have been illegally deprived of his seat as a representative from the Eleventh Missouri district.

The speaker held that as the O'Neill-Joy election case had been adjudicated Mr. Bartholdt's resolution could have no privileged status.

Mr. O'Neill, the subject of attack, demanded the floor as a matter of privilege, but he was also ruled out and forced to take his seat.

The pending amendment, that of Mr. Kyle (dem., Miss.) to strike out the appropriation for the fast southern mail, was defeated. An amendment providing a limitation of ten years upon the payment of money orders and for the destruction of money order files at the end of that time was adopted.

After the postoffice bill was reported to the house Mr. Quigg was given three-quarters of an hour to oppose an amendment adopted in committee of the whole, making all publications purporting to be issued periodically and to subscribers, but which are merely books or reprints of books, whether they be issued complete or in parts, bound or unbound, sold by subscription or otherwise, subject to postage at third-class rates when transmitted through the mails. The amendment affects "Seaside Library" publications and books (reprints), given as premiums with country newspaper subscriptions, etc.

After debate the amendment was stricken from the bill, 26 to 183, and the bill was then passed.

Mr. Campbell (dem., N. Y.) entered a motion to reconsider the vote by which the race bill was defeated Monday and the house adjourned.

WILL BE A HOT FIGHT.

Indiana State Convention Promises Some Life.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 25.—The biggest convention a western state ever knew will meet here at 9 in the morning for the purpose of nominating the state ticket. Indiana does not elect a governor this year, but ten places on the state ticket are to be filled and for these ten places there are forty-three living candidates. Each man considers his chances as good as that of any other candidate. Combinations seem to be out of the question, owing to the multiplicity of candidates. Gen. Harrison is home and it is expected that to-day he will address the convention. It was expected he would preside, but he declined that honor.

Fishing Boats Lost Off the Irish Coast.

DUBLIN, April 25.—A terrific gale prevailed yesterday on the southern coast of Ireland. The storm was particularly severe in the Skibbereen district. There was a large fleet of Scotch, English and Irish fishing boats off the coast when the gale set in. Some of them made for ports of refuge, while others remained, thinking they could outride the gale. Scores are now missing and much wreckage has been washed ashore. Reports from various parts of the south coast show that great damage was done on land.

Michigan Insurance Report.

LANSING, Mich., April 25.—The report of Insurance Commissioner Geddings issued to-day shows that the losses incurred by fire and marine insurance companies doing business in Michigan during 1893, together with the expenses of operating, amounted to $4,988,563. This is $242,725 more than the aggregate premiums received.

Harmony Society Sells Its Land.

PITTSBURG, Pa., April 25.—The 2,695 acres of land in Allegheny and Beaver counties owned by the Harmony society at Economy, Pa., have been sold to the Union company for $359,000. It is understood that sensational litigation will be begun shortly regardless of the action of the trustees. It is said that the proposed action will be in the nature of a charge of conspiracy.

Liquor Sold in South Carolina.

COLUMBIA, S. C., April 25.—Carloads of whisky are being received here and saloons are opening as under the former regime.

VETS TELL STORIES FULL OF ROMANCE.

CONFEDERATE SAVED GENERAL J. B. CALLIS.

Notable Characters Among the Veterans Who Are Attending the State Encampment—John Beth Bound to Fight—Ex-Commander Weldon Greets His Friends.

General J. B. Callis, a living proof that all humanity is not forgotten in war times, was the centre of a group at the Grand last night. He was telling his cousin, I. A. Farnsworth, of this city, how he found a relative in South Carolina.

General Callis walks with the aid of crutches. The wound causing his lameness was received at Gettysburg. He lay within the confederate lines and three or four privates came along looking for plunder, saw he was an officer and stripped him instantly. They took clothing and money—about $200—and ran off to the side of the road to divide up.

General Callis was almost unconscious from pain when a rebel officer rode up, saw his condition and stopped. General Callis answered his question by telling him that had happened and pointed out the man. A moment later the rebels were dragged back and compelled to disgorge. The officer had General Callis moved to a hospital and well cared for. The two exchanged cards but heard no more of one another until long after the war when the southerner, then in South Carolina—began to trace his genealogical tree. He followed a line that led him to Missouri, thence to Lancaster, Wis., and in Lancaster awoke to the fact that the man he had befriended on the field of Gettysburg was a family connection.

Tales such as this were very plenty at the regimental and department headquarters today. Fiction is weak beside the truths that reunions between comrades of 61-65 recall. The state encampment each year brings together some men who haven't met since the grand review in Washington. Others are familiar figures and are hailed with enthusiasm wherever they turn. Said a Milwaukee veteran at the Grand today:

"There have been no department encampments in Wisconsin the past fifteen years when that good natured little gentleman talking with Major Rogers was not present. Of course you know him; every one in Wisconsin knows Phil Cheek, Jr. He took the order in the state when it had less than three thousand and before the end of his second term as department commander there were 10,000 members. He had been insurance commissioner four years and is now general agent for an insurance company. He is one of the most interesting of our public speakers.

"Look the crowd over. Pretty fair appearing company of men, nearly all of whom have reached the half century mark, don't you think? Some of the state's great business men are in that crowd; some of its best lawyers and doctors. There is O. L. Rosenkrans, of Oconomowoc, who has large business interests in at least two western cities. He was only a sixteen year old when he enlisted for three years or during the war and there were no better soldiers in his regiment and there are no better business men in Wisconsin than he has proved himself to be. He has always been busy, when he was a lad of a few years of age and ever since. He was ten years old when he started to make his own way in the world. As a farmer boy, a stage driver, a school teacher, a jeweler, a farmer and a stock-raiser he has succeeded. Everybody seems to like him and he is worthy of everybody's liking, and I am not surprised that they are talking of running him for secretary of state.

"Major William H. Upham, of Marshfield, is one of the best known business men in Wisconsin. He was wounded and sent to Libby Prison from the first Bull Run battle field. When released and while at Washington, Senator James R. Doolittle took the modest private up to see President Lincoln. The great war president was so pleased with him that he nominated him for a cadet at West Point, from which the major graduated. He served in the regular army for many years, and was elected department commander in 1891 at Oshkosh. He is prominently talked of for governor.

"Who is that little fellow from Green Bay? John Beth, one of the old city's big merchants. It was about thirty three years ago this week that John, with his coat on his arm and his face covered with perspiration marched into Appleton and enlisted in a company forming there. The government thought it would not need that company and it was disbanded and the maddest German boy you ever saw was this same John Beth. The next day after the company was disbanded, John took off his coat and started for Illinois on foot, joined a regiment of that state and remained in the army until the fighting was done. That is who that man from Green Bay is.

"Wiry Major Mahoney, of Madison, who served in the Fourth Wisconsin with Governor Peck, is always a welcome visitor to the department encampment. Billy Mahoney makes friends with all classes of people who are worth making friends of.

"Another man from Madison is Past Department Commander C. R. Weldon. He has just returned from the south where he has been several weeks for his health. He made a good department commander and has the respect and admiration of all who served under him in the Grand Army of Wisconsin.

PAST COMMANDER WELDON.

"That active, youngish looking man is Commander Goldsmith, of George C. Drake post, of Milwaukee. He formerly resided at St. Louis, and is a very earnest Grand Army man.

"That is a Kentuckian, that wavy haired delegate, and he is the happy-

est little gentleman you ever saw for a man engaged in his business. He is a Milwaukee undertaker and has been commander of Wolcott post. George L. Thomas is his name and there are no Milwaukee soldiers who do not like him."

"It has been many a year since there has been a department encampment when Colonel E. B. Gray was not present. Colonel Gray has been active as Grand Army man ten years or more. He was adjutant general when General Fairchild was at the head of the order; served as assistant adjutant general nearly two terms under Commander Weissert, during the terms of Commanders Ferguson, Bryant and Upham, and was again adjutant general during the administration of Commander-in-Chief Weissert.

"There is one of the most level headed members of the order in this department," said the veteran, as he pointed to ex-Senator E. F. Kid, now a prominent banker of Prairie du Chien, who served under Jerry Rusk in the Twenty-Fifth Wisconsin. "You will hear from him in this state, sure."

"The erect, handsome, gray haired, young-faced, quick speaking gentleman is a past department commander, Major Henry G. Rogers, of Milwaukee, who served in the Twenty-Fourth Wisconsin and was wounded five times at Chicamauga, but still loaded and fired. It is said that when General Longstreet heard that the Twenty-Fourth Wisconsin, with such soldiers as Major Rogers for its members, were in front of him, he gave the order to retreat and never stopped until he reached the Rappahannock and Bobby Lee's army of gray coats."

MAJOR HENRY G. ROGERS.

"I could sit here and talk to you about these men for three weeks if you wanted to hear me, and they would stay where I could see them. There are many more who are equally worthy of mention. Come around this evening and we will speak some more of them."

GOOD WEEK FOR GROWING CROPS
Farmers Report That There Has Been Rapid Growth of Grass

The weather of the past week was generally favorable to the growth of vegetation; temperature and sunshine probably slightly below the average and in most sections too wet for the greatest work, but weather to cause a hardy growth which will the better withstand possible late frosts. Winter grain is reported in better condition than the previous week and early sown spring grain is coming up strong and healthy. Sowing of oats, barley, and spring wheat has been finished in some southern counties, and is well along in most of the central ones, while the northern counties are preparing, and the close of the week with favorable weather, will find much seeding done.

Grass has been growing finely, and pastures are generally far enough ahead for sheep in all southern and central counties, and some even report sufficient pasture for cattle. Reports of damage to clover are still given, and there can be no doubt that the winter proved too severe for it in rainy sections.

In many of the southern and central counties potato planting will be taken up this week, a few early potatoes being already in the ground. A large acreage is to be planted in central counties.

Planting is being done for corn where the small grain has been finished. Some farmers have even planted, but these are only in very favorable localities. Much work will, however, be done the last of this week and the first of the coming.

Fruit trees are budding in southern and southeastern counties, and reports are favorable.

FEW SAW "LA BELLE RUSSE."

Excellent Attraction But Scarcely Patronized At the Grand Last Night.

A very small audience saw "La Belle Russe" at Myers opera house last night. The attractions on the streets caused by the arrival of the Grand Army delegations and the music of the fife and drums were too much for a hall entertainment. The piece was well given, Miss Van Etta being exceedingly clever. To-night "Faust" will be presented.

WATROUS GAINS IN THE CANVASS.

GRAND ARMY ELECTION WILL BE HELD TOMORROW

Two Elements, the Machine, and the Anti-Machine, Are Contending For Supremacy—How the Struggle Has Come to a Head During the Last Three Years.

Four candidates are in the field for department commander of the G. A. R. Colonel J. A. Watrous of Milwaukee, Captain L. J. Billings of Rhinelander, Captain Mangan of Pon du Lac and Captain Carter of Dodgeville comprise the list.

Today gave the candidates a fair chance to test their strength.

A lively fight is expected but arrivals last night and this morning seemed to add strength to the Watrous forces. Yesterday it was reported that Racine would oppose the Milwaukee man because he failed to appoint a G. A. R. man deputy revenue collector when he was collector of the Post of Milwaukee a few years ago.

"As a matter of fact fourteen out of my eighteen appointments were G. A. R. men and it always appeared to me that if anybody had a kick it was the other people," said Colonel Watrous. Racine men gave the colonel assurance last night that he had nothing to fear from their quarter.

The struggle for the assistant adjutant-generalship will cut a big figure in the vote on the head of the ticket. If Colonel Watrous is elected commander S. H. Tallmadge, of Milwaukee, will be his adjutant. If L. K. Billings wins Colonel E. B. Gray, of Milwaukee, is supposed to be the man of destiny. Colonel Gray was assistant-general of the National G. A. R. a year ago and for several years was assistant adjutant-general for Wisconsin. His influence is considerable, as would naturally be supposed, and is lending strength to the Billings movement.

Two Elements In The Order.

There have been two elements in G. A. R. circles in this state for some years past, the so-called machine party, composed of posts outside of Milwaukee, and the anti-machine element with headquarters in the Cream City. A year ago as well as this year Colonel Watrous represented the second influence. Commander Shores leading the opposition forces in 1893 and L. K. Billings this year. At the election of 1892, the anti-machine men scored their first victory, electing Mr. Welton by a decisive majority. The only objection urged against Colonel Watrous is that he is a violent partisan, and that for this reason, the democratic members of the order could not expect to receive justice at his hands during the coming year, but against that his adherents urge that when the politicians combined to retire General Bragg from his position as head of the order, Colonel Watrous was not prevented by his politics from giving the gallant general his active support.

He Has a Stiff Back.

Colonel Watrous has been for years the editor of the Milwaukee Telegraph, which is the organ of the veterans, and has besides given much time and energy to the work of the Grand Army. But with all of this, he is noted for his independence, which prevented him from being the ideal candidate for the ring of politicians who have had a great deal to say in Grand Army affairs the past few years. He says he will accept if elected, but is making no fight, as he considers the office one of too much dignity to be made the object of an unseemly scramble. This does not prevent his friends from doing some heavy work in his behalf, and with the Billings element it is much the same. The election is not likely to take place until tomorrow afternoon.

BRIEF NEWS OF THE CITY.

Planing Mill Closed For Repairs.

Inman & Bolland planing mill and Marzluff's shoe factory were shut down yesterday to permit some repairs to be made on the flume. The frost of the past winter damaged the masonry to such an extent that it had to be repaired before something more serious developed.

"Switzerland" at the Court Secret M. E. Church Was Well Patronized.

"Switzerland," given by Charlotte M. Allen, assisted by Dorothy Harrington, materially added to the funds of the Y. M. C. A. auxiliary. It drew out a large number of people, filling the large auditorium of Court street church. Miss Allen's story of a tour of three persons in Switzerland was very interesting, she being ably assisted by Miss Harrington. The Y. M. C. A. male quartette rendered several numbers and there was instrumental music.

BOAT THIEVES ON THE RIVER.

Several Fine Craft Have Mysteriously Disappeared This Spring.

Boat thieves have made their appearance, and unwary boat-owners are suffering from their acts. Several valuable boats have been taken, and all traces of them lost entirely. This morning four boats floated over the dam and went down the river. It is hardly believed that these raiders have anything to do with the "Pirates of Penzance."

WAS LAMED FOR LIFE BY A TROLLEY CAR.

CHARLES DALY HAD ONE FOOT CUT OFF.

Riding Behind a Skittish Horse He Was Thrown Out Directly in the Way of an Approaching Car—Bore the Pain of an Operation Very Bravely.

Charles H. Daly, the North Main street baker, was maimed for life by being run over by a street car last evening at six o'clock. Mr. Daly and William Fathers were driving on West Milwaukee street, their horse being quite skittish. When they were near Frederick's livery stable they were overtaken by an east-bound Main street car. The horse began to jump and turn and in doing this threw both occupants out, Mr. Daly being thrown clear of the buggy. His foot struck on the street car rail in front of the rear wheel. The wheel passed over the side and front of his foot. He was taken into McLean's cigar store and the fire patrol called which conveyed him to his home on North Main street. Drs. Palmer and Mills were called and found it necessary to amputate the foot below the instep. The front part of the foot was crushed in a horrible manner. Notwithstanding the mangle of the foot which caused great loss of blood, Mr. Daly stood the shock like a hero. After the foot was amputated he suffered great pain for a time, but is doing well to-day.

Mr. Fathers was more fortunate, although he was caught between the wheels and dragged some distance before the frightened horse was captured. He escaped with some bruises on the back and hips.

HE MADE OLD GLORY LONG MAY IT WAVE.

CAPT. SAMUEL CHESTER REID
AN AMERICAN HERO.

His Remains Lie Beneath a Little Mound in Historic Greenwood—A Tombstone of Weeds for the Hero of Fayal—Early History Brought to Mind.

ENEATH A LITTLE mound in Greenwood cemetery, neglected and weed-covered, without even a headstone to mark the spot, lie the remains of an American hero, the designer of the American flag. It is a spot that very few Americans have ever heard of, and its position in the big cemetery is as inconspicuous as the humblest grave in Potter's field.

Surrounded by the elaborate mausoleums and granite monuments that adorn the last earthly resting places of private citizens, the grave of Capt. Samuel Chester Reid is situated in the little plot at the intersection of Cypress avenue and Zephyr path. Capt. Reid's achievements during the war of 1813 are among the most noteworthy in that memorable strife.

It was as commander of the good old American privateer brig Gen. Armstrong that Capt. Reid fought one of the greatest naval battles that history recalls. The engagement took place in Fayal Roads, Azores Islands. The Armstrong had anchored in a neutral port when, on Sept. 26, 1814, she was attacked by a British squadron consisting of three vessels—the flagship Plantagenet of seventy-four guns; the frigate Rota of forty-four guns, and the brig Carnation of eighteen guns. The British numbered over 3,000 men, and this, with the total of 136 guns, seemed an overwhelming force against the seven guns and ninety men of the Armstrong.

Notwithstanding the protest of the governor of the port, who demanded of the British commander, Capt. Lloyd, that he respect neutral territory, the British opened hostilities by firing a broadside from the Carnation on the morning of the 26th. The plucky American stood his ground firmly with his handful of men, and after a series of encounters, lasting over two days, he completely defeated the enemy. Capt. Lloyd of the squadron, however, was determined to capture the American privateer.

It was because he realized that he could not forever hold out against the superior forces of the British that Capt. Reid ordered all the dead and wounded taken ashore on the second day of the engagement. He then engaged the Carnation, and, after compelling her to haul off for repairs with an injured hull and mast down, he ordered the Gen. Armstrong to be scuttled so as to prevent the enemy from getting her off.

The defeat of the squadron at Fayal saved New Orleans from falling into the hands of the British, inasmuch as the three disabled vessels were part of Sir Admiral Cochrane's expedition sent out to capture the Louisiana port. The Fayal incident delayed their departure and Gen. Andrew Jackson's arrival in New Orleans before that of the squadron saved the city.

Capt. Reid's return to the United States was made an occasion of the greatest enthusiasm. Honors were showered on the young hero from all quarters. Resolutions of thanks were passed unanimously by the legislature of New York, which body also presented the captain with a battle sword. From the time of his leaving Savannah until his arrival in the north his route was one continued march of triumph.

Soon after reaching New York Capt. Reid received the appointment of sailing master in the United States navy. This position he held until his death, but served in the meantime as harbor master and port warden of the port of New York.

CAPT. SAMUEL CHESTER REID.

It was while serving in the former capacity that Capt. Reid made his suggestion that the original thirteen states be represented on the United States flag by thirteen stripes, and that a new star be added whenever a state should be added to the Union. His design was adopted, and on April 13, 1813, the first flag of the present design was raised over the house of representatives at Washington.

There have been many claims for the honor, but the best authorities agree that Capt. Reid designed and proposed the present United States flag.

In Greenwood cemetery the guides will tell you that they do not know the grave of Capt. Reid, but at the superintendent's office you will be directed to plot 13, 108, corner Cypress avenue and Zephyr path. That is all the record they have. Six other graves occupy this plot besides Capt. Reid's, and none of them is marked.

The plot is beautifully situated at the foot of Ocean Hill. On the left, facing it, stands a spreading maple that throws its shadows over the patriot's grave, while a giant dogwood tree performs the same service in the rear of the plot. A slender butternut casts one lonely branch over the seven lonely graves—a pathetic attempt to hide their bareness.

In the immediate vicinity of plot No. 13, 108 is the grave of Laura Keane, the actress. Splendid monuments rise on all sides, and the highest shaft in the cemetery will soon be raised over the family plot of the late Joseph F. Knapp, within a dozen yards of Reid's grave.

Although the cemetery officials seem to possess no positive proofs as to the exact location of the grave, there are those less ignorant. Lafayette Post, No. 140, G. A. R., decorates the foremost corner grave on every Memorial day. That is the only distinction it receives.

But at last Congress has awakened to the fact that there are still some forgotten heroes to be remembered. A few weeks ago an amendment to the Sundry Civil Appropriation bill was

THE UNMARKED MOUND IN GREENWOOD, carried by the house. This amendment provides for a suitable monument over the grave of the hero of Fayal.

Childs' Old Seat.

Wootton, the country seat of George W. Childs, near Bryn Mawr, has been bought by George W. Childs Drexel, the namesake of Mr. Childs and present publisher of the Public Ledger. The estate has been purchased from Mrs. Childs, the price paid for it not being announced. Wootton is situated a little more than a mile from Bryn Mawr station, on the Pennsylvania railroad, in one of the most picturesque and delightful parts of that attractive suburban section. The estate comprises fifty-seven acres and was named Wootton out of compliment to the old family seat of the Grenvilles in England, and home of the duke of Buckingham, by whom Mr. and Mrs. Childs were hospitably entertained during a trip abroad.

A Poet Let Down Easily.

William Cullen Bryant, while editor of the Post, insisted that young poets should be sympathetically noticed in the book column. Once a sub-editor handed him a thin volume of poems, saying that they were worthless. Mr. Bryant looked through the book and then said: "You might say that it is prettily bound and clearly printed." "Give me your candid judgment on these lines," said the young man of literary aspirations; "do they convey the idea of poetry at all?" "Yes, sir," replied the editor, looking them over, "they do. There is something in every line that conveys the idea. Every line," continued the kind-hearted man, letting him down as gently as he could, "begins with a capital letter."

Helen Gould's Charity.

Miss Helen Gould has just offered a great farm at Irvington-on-the-Hudson to the Kindergarten and Potted-Plant association. The land will be dotted with a number of frame buildings, in which two hundred and fifty or more children are to be lodged and fed during the summer months. There will be flower beds as object lessons, laid out by experienced gardeners; but each child will be allotted a plot of ground and taught to cultivate it.

Tyndall's Father.

Prof. Tyndall's father was a shoemaker in an Irish village and lived in rooms in the rear of his small shop. But he had more than a share of learning and was witty and sarcastic in argument. His son was sent to the local grammar school, and one of his old chums there says that young Tyndall was an effeminate boy, who gave little promise of living to be 73 years of age.

Cooling Water.

It is not generally known that water may be cooled almost to ice water temperature by putting it into an unglazed earthen jar and hanging it in a current of air. The water permeates the porous vessel and evaporates rapidly, thus cooling the water in a very short time.

She Runs an Elevator.

St. Louis has a feminine "elevator boy." She is young, rosy-cheeked and pretty, according to the St. Louis papers; the pink of propriety; does not whistle or smoke cigarettes; polite and willing to give information; in short, a decided improvement on the surly chaps usually found running elevators.

A New Whistle for Locomotives.

The bell chime steam whistle consists in producing three distinct tones, pitched for illustration to the first, third and fifth of the common musical scale, thus giving an agreeable musical chord. It is more penetrating than the common whistle, and can be heard farther.

HE GOT THE HAM.

An Almost Pathetic Incident of the Red River Campaign.

During the hurried and fatiguing retreat of Gen. Steele's army from Camden back to Little Rock, after the disastrous defeat of Banks by Kirby Smith, when the latter turned his attention to us, with the laudable intention and full expectation of gobbling us in, we had for about ten days or more to run a race against time, with an overpoweringly superior force of the victorious enemy.

The writer very distinctly remembers that for eight days and nights he never even loosened the saddle-girth on his poor horse, whose back was ruined, a huge blister appearing the size of the McClellan saddle-tree when it was taken off.

Much suffering, of course, was caused, not only by our forced marches, but because we were out of rations, having been obliged to destroy most of our wagon-train. The cavalry, to which the writer belonged, did not suffer so much in this respect, as by cutting out on side roads they secured many southern hams, besides flour, meal, chickens and like additions to our supplies for the inner man. The infantry, however, could not make these raids, and therefore suffered much more, many of them being literally starved out.

One day, as the writer was returning from a very successful foray with half a dozen fine hams strung on his saddle, a package of sausage, and pillow case filled with flour, he rode by numbers of foot-sore comrades struggling along in every stage of exhaustion; too tired, in fact, to indulge in the usual gibes with which the infantry were wont to regale the ears of a cavalryman when riding by them.

Finally a young infantry soldier, a mere boy, who was disconsolately sitting on the roadside, as I was passing him, ventured timidly to address me:

"Oh, pard! you've got such a lot of nice meat there; won't you please let me have just a little slice off one of those hams? I wouldn't ask you, but indeed I haven't had but just two hard-tack since we began the retreat, and I ate the last of them yesterday, and I'm just starving."

I looked at him. His face was more eloquent than his words; his lips trembling with emotions he vainly strove to hide.

"So you would like just a little slice?" said I. "Well, pard, you can't have a little slice; but there," and I detached a ham and handed it to him. "Just you take this ham and slice it to suit yourself, and divide it with any of your comrades who are as hungry as you are; and don't you ever think the cavalry boys are all hogs after this."

I never saw more joy displayed on a human face. He grasped the ham, as if he feared it might escape him, and said:

"Pard, do you mean that I can have it all?" Then, as I nodded: "May God Almighty bless you, pard! If ever I hear anyone say a word against the cavalry again I'll stand up for them for what you have done for me. I was just played out, but I'm all right now." And his knife was out and he was cutting and eating raw ham as I bade him good-by and rode on.

I have never forgotten the incident, and if this falls under the eyes of that comrade I shall be more than pleased to hear from him. I was a boy then, and am in the 50's now.

A few days later Kirby Smith caught up with us at Jenkins' Ferry, on the Saline river, and while he outnumbered us three to one, we beat him back and crossed the river, to safely reach Little Rock, though in the fight we lost about one thousand five hundred killed and wounded.—J. R. Martin, in National Tribune.

Empty Since the War.

One of the curiosities to be found in southern Ohio, not far from Chillicothe, is a country store that has remained as it now is for over thirty years without the change of a single article. When the war broke out the man who owned the store had a son. The father was intensely loyal and persuaded the son to enlist, promising the son that if he should enlist the store and its contents should be his when he returned. Another call for troops came and the old man locked up the store and shouldered a musket. He remained in the army until peace was declared and then returned to his home. His wife had died in the meantime and no tidings had ever been received from the son. The father worked a small farm that he owned, but never entered the store, saying that it should be there as it was when the son came home to claim it. A quarter of a century has gone, but no word yet from the missing son, and the store stands just as it was over thirty years ago, the old man, now in his old dotage, refusing to allow anyone to enter it.—Pittsburgh Chronicle-Telegraph.

JOHN D. GARLING, of Hagerstown, Md., has a small pocket Bible that he found after the battle of Gettysburg on a camp ground near the former place. Garling is at least the third owner of the book, for it bears upon a fly leaf this inscription: "This Bible was found on the train taken from the rebels on the 5th day of July, 1863, by John N. Wolstein, and I take it as my guide through life with Jesus as my Captain. Boonsboro, Md., July 7, 1863."

TELLS A STORY.

Comrade Jones Lives to Explain to His Friends How He Passed Over the Field of Gettysburg High Up in the Air—He Rode a Rifled Shell.

"You seem to have been very fond of fast traveling all your life," encouragingly remarked Robinson, as Jones finished a somewhat stiff narrative of having had his coat tails caught on the rear platform of the Chicago limited as it passed through Dunkirk, and of flying behind from there to Toledo.

"Of what other rapid traveling did I ever tell?" inquired Jones.

"Well, there was the time you rode your hen-farm down Pike's peak, the turn you took on the Montana jaguar, and the trip you enjoyed in your cyclone cottage, not to mention the time you stopped the balloon by taking hold of the drag rope, and went across the country, putting down one foot here and the other from a quarter to a half mile further on."

Jones smiled complacently, and flicked the ashes off his cigar. The rehearsal of his enormities appeared rather to please him than otherwise. Then his eye fell on Jackson Peters who seemed to be meditating treasonable sarcasm. He arched his eyebrows and said to him:

"Still, I dare say that on none of those occasions did I go so fast as did my young friend Jackson on that night when he ran twenty blocks while returning from a late club dinner, having mistaken a fire-fly for the headlight of a locomotive which had jumped the track and was chasing him with murder in its iron heart."

Peters smiled weakly, but made no reply, though it was the first he had ever heard of the incident. But after a moment he said: "I was just reading of a young man who recently got married and bought five dollars' worth of merry-go-round tickets and rode them out with his bride for a wedding tour."

"Not a bad idea," observed Jones. "He didn't have the humiliating experience of attempting to deceive a hotel clerk by trying to register 'and wife' for the first time like a man who had been married ten years, and having the eagle-eyed fellow call a boy and direct him in a distinct voice to 'brush the rice off the gentleman's hat brim and show him up to the bridal chamber.'"

"Now that the subject of rapid transit has come up, if you gentlemen will pardon me, I will tell of my fastest experience in that line. I was, as you must remember, a captain in the Tenth Minnesota cavalry during the late war."

"Why do you never use your title?" inquired Smith.

"For the first few years after I came out of the army I was always called 'Captain.' I was living in Illinois at that time. I moved to Iowa, and the people there called me 'Major.' I then went on to Nebraska, and they called me 'Colonel.' I made another move, to Colorado, and found myself referred to as 'General.' I saw that promotion depended simply on moving west, and decided that it was beneath a man of parts, and have always since asked my friends to refrain from calling me by anything but my name. As I started to say, it was at the battle of Gettysburg. The Tenth Minnesota played an important part. We were exposed to a severe fire, and after several hot charges I found that every officer above me had been killed. I instantly put myself at the head of the troop, and determined to break the enemy's center, two miles away across the valley. We were in front of a battery of heavy New York artillery, which was stationed on a ridge above us and was firing over our heads. Calling my men about me, I told them that I proposed to smash the enemy's center or die in the attempt. They were wild to have me lead them to victory. I waved my sword, with some laconic remarks, which, had they been my last words, would have gone thundering down the corridors of time, inspiring soldiers yet unborn, and we were off. We were superbly mounted, and rode like the wind. I clapped spurs to my horse, and dashed down a little declivity, certainly faster than I had ever ridden before. Suddenly my horse plunged a forward foot into a hole in the ground, and went down like a flash. My momentum was so terrific that I rose from the saddle and shot forward. I did not strike the ground, as I expected, but instantly felt myself riding on even more rapidly than before. The noble animal had risen under me, apparently, and was carrying me on to victory faster than ever. Still I was not going fast enough to satisfy me. I waved my sword, shouted to my men, and again applied the spurs furiously. What was my surprise when my heels dashed together! I looked down, gentlemen, and was dumfounded to find myself astride a twelve-inch conical shell from the New York battery, and riding it across the valley for the enemy's center, thirty feet from the ground. "My first thought was to dismount, but I could not disappoint my gallant men. I knew they were coming. Once more I waved my sword, and again I shouted. The speed was awful. The air cut my face like knife-points. The shell was two feet long, and gave me a good seat, but I held on with difficulty. Suddenly I noticed a lighted fuse projecting from near the front end of the shell. I dared not let go with either hand, but I was not ready to become a nebulous bit of star dust. There was but one thing to do. I leaned over, pulled out the fuse with my teeth, and began smoking it like a cigarette. A dozen yards before the shell struck the ground I dismounted. It tore on through the ranks of the enemy, and I shouted, ran forward, and began laying about with my sword. I held my own for five minutes, when my men came up, and we cut the line to pieces and won the battle." Robinson seemed to be the only hearer left with the power of speech. "You must have been highly commended for your action," he said.

"The newspapers spoke favorably of it, yes; but I came near getting court-martialed for pulling the fuse out of the shell, thus impairing its efficiency. It was expensive to me financially, too, as I acquired the habit of smoking fuse in place of cigars, and it cost me ten dollars a week for the stuff till I was mustered out."—Harper's Weekly.

HIS 'LAST ROLL' CALL.

Something About the Oldest General of the War, Who Died Recently.

The oldest general of the war has just answered his last roll call. There are men and women all over the world to whom the news of the death of Gen. Ammen will awaken a floodtide of reminiscence. Gen. Ammen was a West Point man, who, after some years of professorship there, left West Point and devoted himself to teaching. This he followed with a love and devotion that was returned to him tenfold in the love and devotion of his scholars. The rules of martinetism might be for others; he asked but one thing—that his pupils give him their lesson hour. This they did, if not for love of study, for love of him. One day in a hotel in a large city Gen. Ammen was standing in the hall in a group with Gens. Sherman, Sheridan and all the big guns that gathered at an army reunion, when down the hall, dashing gold and lace to the right and left, an impetuous girl flung herself around Gen. Ammen's neck, crying: "You dear, sweet old thing, you."

Holding her at arm's length, to be seen by the generals, he said: "My superiors, you have all had your triumphs, but I wouldn't swap mine," and clasped the girl again to his breast.

By first marriage Gen. Ammen was identified with New York state. The mother of his two boys was Caroline Livingston Pierce, a member of the colonial family. Not long ago Gen. Ammen celebrated his 88th birthday. In southern Ohio it was made a festival by the veterans of the war, and a gold medal was given to the grizzled old man, who, alas, had been blind for several years.—N. Y. Sun.

Among the treasured relics of an ex-confederate now living in a border state is half of a red morocco Bible. When he and a companion in arms were hungry and very solemn on the retreat after the fall of Petersburg, they shared equally a small quantity of parched corn, their only food, and tore the Bible in twain, so that each might have a part. Both lived to eat better fare and to own whole Bibles.

A Serious Case.

Wife—You must send me away for my health at once. I am going into a decline.

Husband—My! My! What makes you think so?

Wife—All my dresses are beginning to feel comfortable.—N. Y. Weekly.

As Much as She Could Admit.

Mr. Wickwire—Now, my dear, you must admit that Mrs. White looked exceedingly well in her new gown.

Mrs. Wickwire—Y-e-e-s, the gown did look very well on her.—Indianapolis Journal.

Has Good Reasons.

Viola—But, papa, the marquis is charming; and he is certainly generous to a fault.

Papa—Well, he ought to be; he's got more of them than anybody I know of.—N. Y. World.

TERIBLE WEIGHT.

THE RECOVERY OF Lucretia Osborne Put nam of Foristadale, Mass., was really wonderful. She had been sick for years.

She was utterly prostrated, and seemed beyond a hope of cure.

Her spine, heart, liver, and brain were all seriously affected.

The weight of her body upon her feet would cause dizziness, faintness, and terrible pains in her back, and it was sometimes several hours before she could dress.

This woman's trouble was in her womb, effecting her whole constitution.

She was crushed with that indescribable feeling of bearing down, and suffered agonies that would appal a man.

She found new life in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

She says: "I am like one raised from the dead. I was sick so long I thought I never could get well."

"The suffocating, gasping attacks and awful bearing down feeling left me, my appetite returned, and my friends wondered at my improved looks. I believe Mrs. Pinkham's remedies are a sure cure for the misery of our sex."

HERE IS A MODEL TICKET.

Nobody will question the warmth of Janesville's reception to the G. A. R. Every door is open, every hand extended in friendly greeting.

But why stop at this?

It will be many days before so many clean cut, brainy men assemble in Wisconsin again. Why not take advantage of it and save the politicians a lot of worry at the same time? Not long ago Colonel Hicks suggested a state ticket, made up entirely of editors. Janesville should go him one better with a ticket made up of men who have proved their devotion to their country by baring their breasts to southern bullets. Given a mass meeting with eight hundred delegates from all parts of the state, given a ticket such as that meeting would nominate and who in the state would hesitate for a moment in offering his endorsement?

See the possibilities.

Where is there better timber for governor than M. Griffin, of Eau Claire? Who would lend more dignity to the second place on the ticket than F. A. Copeland, of La Crosse? Could anybody ask for a more competent secretary of state than O. L. Rosencrans, of Oconomowoc? And see what an array for the rest of the ticket—D. G. Sampson, of Ashland, for treasurer; S. E. Veeder, of Maunston; for attorney general; M. Mangan, of Fond du Lac, to look after the railroads; Dr. J. H. Vivian of Mineral Point to keep insurance companies in line, and J. H. Whitney, of Baraboo, giving his thought and energy to the public schools.

Let the meeting be called by all means.

The state would endorse its action without a murmur, or if it did not would convict itself of the grossest lack of appreciation.

IMMENSE SUM HELD IN TRUST

Life insurance patrons have a right to know as to the aggregate of their protection, and the subject is of interest even to the uninsured. The combined assets of the regular companies of this country are now about $1,000,000,000. A recent census bulletin gives the value of all the shipping, canals, telegraphs, telephones and street railroads in the United States as $985,000,000, or some $15,000,000 less than the total possessions of the life companies. The latter have indemnity in force, or an aggregate face value of policies, amounting to $4,000,000,000, or $1,000,000,000 more than the whole worth of live stock on farms and cattle ranges and of farm implements and machinery in the entire country. The estimated value of mines and quarries and of gold and silver coin and bullion on hand is $3,349,100,000, or over one-third less than the total amount of life insurance in force; while the $3,059,000,000 estimate of the worth of all the manufactories and mill machinery of the country is many hundreds of millions below the total of life insurance.

THIRTEEN MONTHS OF DEMOCRACY.

New York Recorder: If the republicans were in control of the government, the country would not see:

Mills closed or running on reduced time.

Tens of thousands of men out of employment.

The banks gorged with money for which no profitable investment can be found.

The value of stocks and bonds cut down.

A pestiferous wave of economic devilry sweeping over the republic; and Tramp armies marching on the capital.

All these evils and many more have thirteen months of democratic ascendancy wrought.

The sooner we all get back to where we were the better. That is the judgment of the people as expressed in the late elections.

BIGGEST IN YEARS IS THIS MEETING.

GRAND ARMY MEN ARE ALL ENTHUSIASTIC.

Reports of Department Officers Show
$14,000 Was Spent in the Way Of Charity Last Year—Suspensions
Give Rise to a Serious Question—
W. R. C. Proceedings.

The twenty-eighth annual encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, department of Wisconsin, formally convened here at ten o'clock this morning. By that time or at noon at least, the delegates had all arrived.

Coming as they did, in ones, twos, dozens and hundreds, it was difficult to keep count of the visitors; but good authorities place the numbers at nearly twelve hundred. They include some of the best folks in the grand old Badger state, too, and Janesville is proud to extend them the welcome they deserve. All were enabled to find quarters, and the visitors will have nothing but words of praise for the people of the city and the Grand Army folks upon whom the work of preparation and reception has devolved.

The committee on credentials met last night at the Grand Hotel and again this morning at the Armory to receive the credentials of delegates; and at ten o'clock this forenoon the first business session of the encampment was called to order in the latter place by Department Commander E. A. Shores of Madison.

The business of today was principally of a routine nature—reading of reports, examination of books, etc. The principal business, that which carries the most interest, will take place tomorrow morning. Besides the election of officers and a council of administration, delegates to the national encampment will be chosen and a trustee for the Veterans' home at Waupaca named.

The first significant fact in Commander Shores report was that about $14,000 had been spent in charity by Wisconsin posts during the last year, nearly four times as much as in the year before. The fund to be turned over to the next administration was reported to be about the same as was received, despite the fact that the year had been an unusually hard one.

Indications point to a decided increase of interest in memorial day observances, not alone by soldiers but by citizens generally and the promise given that the work begun by the G. A. R. will thus be perpetuated and the practice performed after the order has become extinct.

Vigorous reference was made to the pension warfare.

"Within the last year," said the commander, "we have probably witnessed the last serious charge upon the ranks of the G. A. R. that will ever be made by any respectable member of the American people."

The acts of hostility to pensioners were cited and the action of the national convention at Indianapolis gives credit for putting a sudden quietus on the movement. In consequence of this action the work of restoring pensioners who had been suspended from the rolls was begun at once, with the prospect that all would be reinstated. This was due largely to the fact that half a million of men of ripe age stood shoulder to shoulder, all facing one way against such slanderous words and illegal action.

Permanent headquarters were recommended, the examples of other states being cited. The placing of flags on every school house was recommended and a plea made for a moderate amount of military drill in the public schools. A greeting was extended to the W. R. C. and the Sons of Veterans. The latter order was properly to be regarded as the Grand Army's heir. The question of inviting it to become a part of the G. A. R., however, was for the national encampment to determine.

Active Membership Cut Down.

Adjutant General Sampson's report showed that three new posts were organized during the year—F. S. Marsden post, No. 126, Wisconsin Veterans' Home, Waupaca, with thirty-three charter members; Rufus King post, No. 175, South Milwaukee, seventeen members, and Estrick Burbank post, No. 248, Mather, Juneau county, with eleven charter members. Adjutant Sampson urged the recommendation that "picket outpost" or "videttes" be established in sparsely settled districts remote from regular lodges. The Dalton Pickets in Sauk County had made a good beginning and he wanted the encampment to formulate a plan to encourage such work so that the Wisconsin department might be in the lead in this movement as in many others.

Four applications for charters were rejected during the year and the following posts have voluntarily surrendered their charters: No. 126, Rice Lake; No. 248, Peshtigo; No. 272, Glenwood; No. 166, Fairchild, and No. 108, Lloyd.

The total gain in membership during the year was 1,175 including 581 mustered in. The loss was 1838, 230 by death, 53 by honorable discharge and 1001 by suspension, leaving the membership in good standing 12672 and the total membership borne on the rolls 13,346. Adjutant Sampson pointed out that the gain in membership had been healthy, but had been more than offset by the suspensions. The suspension question was growing more serious yearly and if not met gave promise of disaster to the order. Many posts were carrying long lists of suspended comrades. These should be restored if possible. If worthy but unable to pay their dues should be remitted. All others should be dropped.

"My observation of the attendance at post meetings," said the adjutant general, "leads me to suggest that it might be wisdom on the part of country posts to change the time of meeting from evening to afternoon, with the view of receiving better attendance. The farmer comrades could then go to the village, do their trading, attend post meeting and get home if they chose before night."

Relief Corps Is Growing.

A gain of 135 has been made in the Woman's Relief Corps since last year. Eight new corps have been organized, there now being 129 active corps and 4332 members. All these figures were given by Department President Belle S. Hanover, in opening the encampment of the W. R. C. this morning. The session was held in Court Street church, fully four hundred being present. Three hundred more will be here by to-morrow morning, this being the biggest gathering the department has had in years. The reading of reports took most of the time to-day. Mrs. Hanover reported the amount of relief afforded in cash during the last year as $3,970.83; relief other than money, $4,156.71; amount turned over to G. A. R. posts $863.09; amount of money in the hands of the department and of camps $7,929.28. The number of soldiers and soldiers' families assisted during the year was 600; number of members, not related to soldiers, who received aid, 231.

Reports of other department officers and committees were heard in the afternoon and the degree work of the order was exemplified by a team from C. C. Washburn Camp, No. 37, of Madison. Washburn camp has a wide reputation for excellent drill and fine degree work and the team was enthusiastically received.

The election of W. R. C. officers will be held early Thursday morning and Thursday afternoon will be devoted to the reports of committees and discussions for the good of the order.

Plans For the Parade.

There will be regular business sessions of both organizations to-morrow, but an adjournment will be taken in time for the big parade. The procession will form on Milwaukee street right resting on High in this order:

Janesville Fire Police.

Marshal and Aids.

Janesville Light Infantry, Captain C. F. Glass.

Department Commander E. A. Shores and Staff.

Edgerton Zouaves.

Wisconsin Grand Army of the Republic.

The procession will march down Milwaukee street to Main, up Main to North Second street, down Bluff to East Milwaukee street, and down Main street to Park. The Light Infantry will give a skirmish drill immediately after the parade at the park.

To-night's camp fire at the Armory will be open to the public. It was decided last evening, however, that the Thursday night reception should be for G. A. R. only. The public will not be admitted for lack of room, but the W. R. C. and the Light Infantry will be invited guests.

There will be an informal reunion of the Twenty-Second Regiment Wisconsin Volunteers at the Business Men's rooms to-morrow afternoon at 1:30 o'clock. Every member of the regiment is expected to be present.

A cavalry reunion is announced in another column.

Notes About the Delegates.

Many of the notable men who are attending the encampment have been mentioned in another column. But the list is nowhere near exhausted. For instance the tall, straight, white haired man with a face much like General Robert E. Lee's, is Captain Joseph H. Marston, of Appleton. He has been president of the board of trustees of the Waupaca home ever since the home was established, and that institution in which every soldier and every soldier's family in the state has had a deep interest, never had and probably never will have a truer friend. Captain Marston served three years in the Sixth Wisconsin, and was twice wounded, is a general favorite, has been mayor of Appleton and was major of the Second Regiment of Wisconsin National Guards. Probably Captain Marston will remain president of the board as long as he lives; he certainly should if he is willing to perform the arduous duties so long.

That "four eyed" gentleman who never gets excited and always wears a pleasant smile was an Illinois Battery and began his fighting at Shiloh and wound it up in one of the last battles of the war. He is one of the most enthusiastic Grand Army men in the state; has been Adjutant of his post six or seven years, is liked by every body, and if you say Sam you attract his attention, for that is his name—Sam Tallmadge, of Milwaukee.

Frye Arrives Alone.

BRAZIL, Ind., April 25.—A large crowd thronged the depot to hail the arrival of Gen. Frye and his command. An advance agent arrived in the afternoon and rented the opera house for a meeting. Gen. Frye arrived in due time, but his special box car of followers failed to show up.

Bank at Enid, Ok., Reported Failed.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., April 25.—A report comes from Enid, Ok., to the effect that the Merchants' bank has failed and that a mob ran the cashier to North Enid, where he took a train.

Want Carnot to Be a Candidate.

PARIS, April 25.—The friends of President Carnot are trying to persuade him to abandon his intention to withdraw his candidature for re-election.

COATS RE-ARRESTED FOR THE MURDER.

BLOOD SPOTS FOUND ON THE GARMENT HE WORE

Sheriff Bear at Once Left for Edgerton
To Get the Man Who Was Put in Jail Night Before Last—Microscope Unfolds An Unwritten Tale.

Upon a warrant charging him with the murder of Wiebert Tritschler Charles Coats was arrested by Sheriff Bear at Fulton this noon. Although the coroners jury did not hold him later developments caused District Attorney Wheeler to make the move. The discovery was sensational.

Human blood is spattered on the coat that Coats wore on that eventful night which fact was established by Dr. Palmer's analysis.

Coats was arrested night before last by Officer Jogan and Constable Cochran but was released when the coroners jury failed to hold him. In the meantime the coat that he wore had been examined and the spots that Constable Cochran had found were examined by the doctor with a glass.

Human blood and fresh was the report.

Sheriff Bear at once telephoned Howard Lee, of Fulton, to arrest Coats and take him to Edgerton; and at 11 o'clock the sheriff himself left for Edgerton to get the prisoner.

As was stated yesterday, Coats was the man generally suspected of the crime by the people of that vicinity.

SHE WAS THROWN TWENTY FEET

Mrs. James Heffron Hurt by an Accident
on Franklin Street

Mrs. James Heffron was thrown twenty feet from her buggy, striking upon her head on a concrete walk, receiving some severe bruises on her back, hips and head. The accident occurred at 10 o'clock this morning on South Franklin street, near the entrance to Dr. Pember's office in the Mitchell block. Mrs. Heffron was driving northward on Franklin street, when her horse became frightened and started to run. She pulled on the lines drawing him to the sidewalk. The buggy struck the iron railing guarding the steps, bending the heavy iron posts and moving the heavy stone several inches from its bed. This sudden stop of the buggy threw Mrs. Heffron out. She is a very heavy woman and the fall gave her a severe shaking up, possibly resulting in internal injuries. The fire patrol took her to her home on Western avenue and Dr. Sutherland was called.

ODDFELLOWS CELEBRATE TONIGHT

Seventy-fifth Anniversary of Their Order's Establishment to be Marked.

The Odd Fellows will have a big time this evening in Columbia hall celebrating their seventy-fifth anniversary. All Odd Fellows and their families are expected to be present and special invitations have been extended to members of the Grand Army who are visiting the encampment. A musical and literary entertainment will be followed by dancing.

NOTES ABOUT THE ENCAMPMENT.

The skirmish drill will take place in the court house park.

All Janesville will turn out to-morrow to see the Grand Army veterans in parade.

All members of the Fire Police will report at their rooms at 11:30 a. m., sharp, Thursday, in full uniform.

Mrs. CHARITY RUSK CRAIG, daughter of the late ex-Governor Rusk, and her Viroqua Corps are being entertained by Hon. and Mrs. A. P. Lovejoy.

The fact that no arches were put up on the business streets is the only thing now regretted by Janesville people in the line of decorations.

The city never presented a handsomer appearance than it does today in honor of the Grand Army veterans from all parts of Wisconsin.

All drum corps and posts will march direct from depots to Post hall on North Main street, where rooms have been provided to store their grips, coats, etc.

O. W. WALLACE, of the Twelfth Wisconsin Battery, is in the city attending the Grand Army encampment and shaking hands with old comrades. He is the guest of Judge and Mrs. J. W. Sale. Mr. Wallace resides in Chicago.

To Aid Colored Students.

Harvard university recently received by the will of Mrs. Harriet Hayden the sum of $5,000 to found a scholarship for colored students. There are now a number of colored students from various parts of the country not only in the college, but also in the professional schools. The best known among them is a clever law student, W. H. Lewis of Virginia, who for two years has been center rush on the university football team.

THREE MEN HUNGER AFTER DAMAGES.

EPIDEMIC OF PERSONAL SUITS
THIS WEEK.

Ex-Mayor Bentley of Edgerton, Dr. Roberts of Evansville, and Mrs. Enoch Taylor of this City, All Anxious to Have Wrongs Redressed By Judge Bennett.

The circuit court is having a run on personal damage suits at this term. Yesterday the case of Taylor against Mueller was on trial, being an action for personal damages. This morning the case of Bentley against Davis came on to occupy the day, being an action brought by ex-Mayor Bentley, of Edgerton, against Mr. Davis, on account of injuries received by an assault committed near the depot in this city some time ago.

Following this comes the case of Dr. Roberts against the village of Evansville, for damages on account of injuries received through defective streets. A jury was drawn in this action this morning, and at noon Deputy Sheriff L. M. Nelson took the jury to Evansville to inspect the street and the scene of the accident. They will return this evening and the case will be taken up in the morning. All jurors not on the two panels were excused until Friday.

The jury in the case of Taylor against Mueller, found a verdict in favor of the plaintiff, placing the damages at $37.50.

EXPLOITS OF EXPERTS.

David Christie Murray in a recent address contends that the drama is not an art but a trade. The money-making faculty is the one sign of ability.

In a new book that tells of the colors of the soul in various stages of evolution, the important information is given that blue indicates the highest attainments in perfection.

It is announced that Paris is to build, for the purpose of handling world's fair visitors in 1900, a tubular railway eight miles long, in which trains will run on two minutes' headway. Electricity will be employed for moving the trains.

Edison is now at work with a plan to grease the sides of ships, so that they will slip through the water more readily. He says the friction of salt water and its constituents are much more than is generally believed, and if he can only do what he is trying to do, the Campana can make the voyage between New York and Liverpool in four days.

Surgery's progress was illustrated several days ago when New York doctors before removing a boy's leg cut a hole in the abdomen, big enough for one of them to thrust in his sterilized hand and pinch an artery that would be involved in the operation. But for the possibility of antiseptic treatment no such operation could be performed with safety.

President Eliot of Harvard says that there is scarcely a single subject taught nowadays in the same way it was taught thirty years ago, and that even law, the most conservative of studies, is now treated in an entirely different method from that which prevailed in former years. That method, he adds, is being adopted all over the country and is making its way into the English universities.

A new explosive cartridge, invented by Dr. Ochs, formerly with the Messrs. Krupp, is a sealed glass tube or ball containing acidulated water, into which two platinum wires are led. For use a current of electricity is sent through the wires, decomposing the water into hydrogen and oxygen. Upon the ignition of the mixed gases an explosive force of 5,800 atmospheres per square inch is developed.

Farmers Beaten Out of Small Sums By Smooth Canvassers.

EMERALD GROVE, April 24—Some shrewd parties claiming to represent a Chicago portrait house have been doing a smooth game with some of our citizens, much to their sorrow besides the loss of from fifty cents to one dollar. Misses Bessie and Lillie Westy gave a party on Saturday evening last to their schoolmates and friends to commemorate their fifteenth and twelfth birthday anniversary which had come around during the week. Prof. Furgeson was greeted with a small audience last Thursday evening. Those who attended "were well pleased especially the "boys" who had their pictures taken. Martin Morse of Johnstown, is doing a land office business in this vicinity with his woven wire fence. The lookout at present is good for a butcher shop here. Mr. Goodrich is getting his shop repaired and renovated for a firm from Milton Junction. Miss Lizzie Gillies returned to Evansville last week. Fred Squire of Milton, was in the village last week. A TIP TO THE THIEF.

He Would Not Have Robbed Her Had She Not Helped Him.

There is a lady in Chicago who has material for one of the most peculiar stories ever written. She was sitting with her husband late one night a few weeks ago, and as they were preparing to retire she reminded him that the catch on the window was broken and that he had better see to it before he retired. He was reading at the time, and, although he murmured assent, he forgot all about the instruction a moment later. Not so, however, a tramp who was sitting on the porch within earshot, and who half an hour later quietly pushed up the window sash, jumped in and commenced to ransack the house. He had very little success, because on opening a closet which looked something like a plate depository he upset a pair of dumbbells and Indian clubs which the lady's sons used for training purposes.

The lady heard the noise, rushed out on the roof of the kitchen, which was in a line with her bedroom window, and screamed murder for five minutes. Then a policeman came leisurely up, and the matter was investigated. The burglar was caught the next day and was brought to the house by two detectives. The lady, who thought the burglar the most respectable looking of the three, declined to admit the party, and talked to them through the very window which had been used by the burglar. That worthy, who was doing the penitent act and evidently working for a short sentence, reminded her of her conversation with her husband, and told her that he had no tools with him at all, and but for the hint which she unconsciously gave him he should not have dreamed of making any attempt. The lady's disgust can easily be imagined.

ALWAYS SHORT OF MONEY.

Many Congressmen Find It Difficult to Make Both Ends Meet.

Although a congressman gets about $13.50 a day in the way of salary, there are a great many men in the lower branch of congress who are always short of money. Quite a number spend their income recklessly, but a great many have legitimate domestic expenses that run so close to the amount of their salary that they have hard picking at times to get along. A considerable number of members discount their salaries at the banks. They are charged something like eight and a half per cent and if the total of this account were made public it would make a remarkable showing. It is by no means the new or younger members who are oftenest short before salary day comes around. Many of the older members, who have sat in the house for years, are in this predicament quite frequently. Many of them are men of irreproachable habits, but with large and expensive families to support, and with heavy political obligations at home forming a constant drain on their exchequer which they cannot get rid of. I learn that there is quite a little unexpended balance remaining unclaimed of the appropriation to pay mileage for the extra session. This is due to the fact that there are members so conscientious that they think they have no moral right to touch that money and have never claimed it.

The Ghostly Patter.

The house at Morristown occupied by Frank Stockton once had the reputation of being haunted. The owner was about completing the sale of the house to a lawyer when a word was dropped as to the uncanny legend touching the place, and the would-be purchaser immediately declined to proceed further with the negotiations. Mr. Stockton, however, cheerfully took the house, ghost and all, and perhaps he was a little disappointed when the trimming of some trees about the eaves put to flight the legend of the place. It was discovered that the squirrels were accustomed to leap from the trees to the roof and use the water trough as a runway. The sound of their scampering had been mistaken for that of ghostly feet.

American Meat in England.

It will startle some people to learn that if no American meat is imported into the London market for two days the price of all kinds of meat goes up. Moreover, it is also a fact that if the American supply was entirely cut off they would have famine prices in force, so large is the quantity consumed. One reason why English butchers buy American cattle is because they are sent over in such good condition. English cattle come to town in such a bruised state that the farmers lose by the loss of appearance and the butchers by the damage done to the meat. The American palace cars, on the other hand, are so well appointed that the beasts actually improve by traveling, and arrive there without a spot on them.

Parlor Football.

Society has a new diversion known as parlor football. It is played on a large table, the football being an egg-shell from which the contents have been removed through a small hole in one end. The goals are at the opposite ends of the table, and the egg is propelled by blowing instead of kicking. In a game of this kind the person who has previously eaten an onion invariably wins.

A Mammoth Object Glass.

The flint glass disk used by the Clarks in making the great objective for the Lick telescope was cast in Europe by M. Feil. Its original diameter was 38.19 inches, its thickness 21.65 inches and its weight 375 pounds. It was twenty-nine days from the date of the casting before Professor Feil considered that it had cooled sufficiently to allow of safe removal from the mold.

W. F. Hayes' Victory in Janesville.

Scores of People testify to the Merits of Mr. Hayes as an Optician. People who have not been able to get the proper glasses are now perfectly satisfied, others who had given up all hope of ever having the correct glasses adjusted to their eyes, now speak in the most glowing terms of Optician Hayes.

Permanent office at F. C. Cook & Co's., Jewelry Store.

READ WHAT A FEW SAY

I take pleasure in recommending W. F. Hayes as a thorough and competent optician. He examined my eyes, and I am wearing glasses fitted by him. They are perfect in every way.
JOHN R. BENNETT.

Rev. J. C. Koerner, pastor of St. Paul's church says:

Mr. W. F. Hayes, the expert optician, examined my eyes and fitted glasses to them. He understands his business and I have no hesitancy in recommending him as a thorough and reliable optician. REV. J. C. KOERNER.

Prof. J. C. Zinck says:

This is to certify that I have had a great deal of trouble with my eyes and it seemed almost impossible for me to get a pair of spectacles that I could wear. I finally went to W. F. Hayes, the eye expert, and after he examined my eyes he told me that they were not alike and required different lenses. He fitted the glasses I am now wearing and I have had no trouble since. Mr. Hayes is perfect in the profession and I would advise any one wearing glasses to consult him, as he can and will relieve you wonderfully.

PROF. J. C. ZINCK.

We, the undersigned physicians of Janesville, Wis., take pleasure in recommending W. F. Hayes at F. C.

Cook & Co's. as a thorough and competent optician:

John F. Pember, Hugh Menzies,
R. W. Edden, L. J. Barrows,
Chas. Reum, J. C. Modrack,
G. G. Chittenden, James Mills,
W. H. Judd, William Horn,
J. B. Whiting, Jr., W. H. Palmer

Rev. W. F. Brown, former pastor of the Presbyterian church of this city says: Optician Hayes fitted myself and wife with "helps to read." They have proved very satisfactory and I cheerfully recommend Mr. Hayes as a reliable optician. REV. W. F. BROWN.

To WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:—For five years I suffered with headaches; I doctored with many physicians, but received help from none of them. At last my eyes were affected, and after I had cramps in the center of the eye which nearly ruined the sight I decided to consult an optician, and I went to W. F. Hayes. He fitted my eyes with glasses last October, and I have had no headache or trouble with my eyes since. I wish to recommend all who are afflicted with trouble of the head or eyes to him. Yours respectfully,
ORA M. SMITH,

TITLED DAIRYMAID MAKES FINE BUTTER

PRINCESS MAUD OF WALES THE ROYAL BEAUTY.

She May Wed Lord Rosebery by and
With the Consent of Her Grandmother—Queer Sprigs from the Royal Tree.

IF RUMOR HAS repented of her former sins and ceased to be the lying jade she was, then Princess Maud the youngest daughter of the Prince of Wales, is to be married to the Earl of Rosebery, who succeeded Mr. Gladstone in the premiership of the dis-united kingdom.

That a princess of the blood should become the wife of a subject would, a few years ago, have been hooted at as a ridiculous impossibility in England. Thirty years have not passed since the mother of the future queen-consort wanted to marry Lord Hood. But her cousin, Queen Victoria, refused to permit such a mesalliance and chose a husband for her out of the German Serene Highnesses.

In no country have democracy and liberal mindedness made such rapid strides of late years as in England. "Her most gracious" seems to have traveled with the times, for since Princess Mary was not allowed to marry the man of her choice, her majesty has given a daughter in marriage to a subject, and one granddaughter. And apropos of the daughter's alliance it was said at the time that Lord Rosebery might have had the hand of Princess Louise, now marchioness of Lorne, for the asking.

Still more curious is the fact that an English princess should become the wife of the widower of a Jewess. Up to 1858 a Jew could not legally become a member of parliament. Since then England has had a premier (Disraeli) born of Jewish parents, a Jew lord chief baron (Jessel), and has a Jew (Rothschild) sitting in the house of lords. Now we shall probably see the strange spectacle of the children of a Jewess taking precedence of the children of a princess of the blood.

Princess Maud is known in the family circle as "Harry," much to the disgust of the queen, who strongly objects to her grandchildren being given nicknames. She is by far the best looking of the Prince of Wales' three daughters, and would be considered quite pretty even did she not belong to royalty. She is 24 years of age, is thoroughly well educated, is a good rider and fencer, and as excellent a maker of butter as her mother.

Where the Enemy Could Not Hit It. Marshal Blucher, the famous Prussian general, was always foremost in fight. His zeal in attack was such, indeed, that the Russians nicknamed him "Marshal Forwards."

After the battle of Waterloo, Louis XVIII., the king of France, desired to bestow upon him the Order of the Holy Ghost, but the old soldier would not accept it. He hadn't forgotten how Napoleon had trodden on his country for years, and he hated France and everything French. The duke of Wellington endeavored to persuade him to receive the mark of royal respect.

"If I do," said Blucher, "I will hang the order on my back." "Well," replied the duke, "if you do, you will only show how highly you value it, by hanging it where the enemy will never hit it." This was a neatly turned compliment.

Was the Father of Six Beauties. Count August Breunner has just died at Flume, in Austria. He was the last male member of an old Rhenish family which settled in Styria in the fourteenth century. The late count was widely celebrated as the father of six daughters, all of them celebrated beauties. One is married to Mr. John Whitehead, of torpedo fame.

Will Soon Retire. Gen. O. O. Howard will reach the retiring age on Nov. 4 next. It is his intention, when his military service is completed, to take up his residence in Burlington, Vt., where his son, Capt. Guy Howard, of the army, is stationed, being engaged in building Fort Ethan Allen, which will be used as a cavalry post.

Has an Eye for Business. Adelia Louise Stowe, a literary person of Omaha, Neb., asked the local courts for permission to change her name to Kohnstamm, on the plea that she could better achieve fame with an uncommon name. The court earned her gratitude by considering her grounds frivolous and rejecting her petition.

FLOWERED GOODS THE THING.

They Will Be Quite Popular In the Country and by the Sea.

Flowered goods are "the thing" this summer, both with woven and stamped figures. Satin princess comes in all the delicate evening shades, brocaded with small flowers in their natural, brilliant colors. Changeable moires are also shown with damasque floral effects, and black moires with tapestry flower designs. Striped chintz patterns are reproduced in silk weaves, the stripes being in satin of delicate tones mingled with tiny sprays or bouquets. Then comes the vast array of taffetas and surahs, having self colored bands and clusters of flowers and leaves in a woven pattern. These are also shown in a variety of changeable tints, and in that case the figure has a different tone from that of the ground. In addition to these appear the usual printed india and china silks—cool, pretty and inexpensive—for summer gowns, and yet wearing very well.

FIGURED INDIA SILK GOWN.

Besides the flowered silks mentioned there are many challoes still sprinkled with floral designs, and, faintest of all, French organdies in white and delicate tints embroidered with dots and printed with nosegays or detached blossoms. These, combined with lace, make charming summer gowns. Of course the popularity of these flimsy fabrics has produced styles suited to them, involving puffs, ruffles, panniers, draperies and shirrings of all sorts. As usual, these special fashions favor the slender woman rather than the plump one, but the latter can always fall back on the tailor made styles, which are hers particularly, and which are not only neat, but simple. Novices often proclaim that plain styles are more difficult to make successfully than furbelowed ones, but it is nevertheless a fact that a much trimmed gown badly made looks worse than a simple one equally badly made, for it has the additional drawback of pretentiousness.

A sketch is given of a gown of printed india silk, the skirt of which is plain in front, but slightly draped at the back. The round bodice is gathered in at the waist and has a square lace yoke outlined with a silk ruffle. The sleeves, which have a puff above the elbow, are tight below it and have lace cuffs. A velvet ribbon belt surrounds the waist, from which depend two long ends. Four velvet rosettes trim the bottom of the front of the skirt.

Frozen—Then on Fire.

Like the application of ice to the small of your back, is the sensation produced by the chill that precedes the fever of malaria. Then comes the roasting stage, when every vein throbs and is scorched as if with liquid fire. Then you well nigh dissolve in exhausting perspiration that leaves you as limp as a wet dish rag. These alternating torments are not remediable permanently with quinine, which is, moreover, a most damaging cumulative poison. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters drives out the foe and repels the further attacks. It is the leading medicinal safeguard against malaria all over the continent of North and South America, Guatemala, the Isthmus of Panama, Mexico and Australia. It regulates the liver, stomach, bowels and kidneys, enriches the blood, and promotes appetite, sleep and digestion. It is not only a medicine, but an effective cordial welcome to the most delicate palate. Rheumatic tendency is counteracted by it.

SIGNALS IN THE SKY.

The Electric Search Light Presents Astonishing Possibilities.

Among the many interesting things in the wonderfully attractive field of electrical investigation, the search light has, perhaps, been brought to the notice of more persons than any other single exhibition of this remarkable element. The thousands who watched the manipulation of the search lights on the top of the World's Fair buildings could scarcely imagine the possibilities of its future. It is not at all remarkable that this great light is in a fair way to be used as a pen to write advertisements upon the clouds. With a densely black evening sky, the light may be so thrown through properly adjusted lenses that a magic-lantern effect on an extensive scale may be produced. Letters 100 feet long are cut in stencil fashion from sheets of tin or iron and projected upon dark clouds or upon the blackness of night. As already arranged, these lights may be seen for more than 100 miles. It is thought that in time lights of such power may be operated that ships at sea may be guided for great distances. It will unquestionably be one of the possibilities of the not very far distant future to communicate information to a wide area by means of letters projected upon the clouds.

TROOPS IN "UNDRESS" READY FOR BATTLE.

THE BOYS TURNED OUT WITH-OUT DELAY.

New Recruits Still Went to Bed Like Civilized Men and Forgot What
Was Necessary When the Long
Roll Call Sounded—Chaplain Mc-Neilly's Funny Story.

The chaplain of the Forty-ninth Tennessee regiment, Rev. J. H. McNeilly, remembers the first battle order that he ever heard. And well he may, it was so peculiar. It was in the fall of 1861 at Fort Donelson, where there were only some half a dozen companies fortifying and drilling. The new chaplain was messing with the senior captain. In those days, he says, the men had not yet given up all home habits.

"CONFOUND YOU, GO AND GET YOUR BREECHES!"

They wore white shirts and under-clothes, and every night undressed and went to bed "like folks."

One day it was rumored that the gun-boats were in the river below us and were coming up. About midnight, while all were sleeping soundly, the long roll began to beat in the company stationed on the river bank.

At once there was a stir in the camp.
Officers were calling the men to fall in,
and there was much hurrying to and fro. Capt. Beaumont was always careful about his dress when on duty, and even now he did not neglect his toilet.

Quickly he put on his uniform, buckled on his sword and stepped out of his tent to take command of his company.

But his men had not been so thoughtful. They sprang up and grasped their muskets and formed in line in front of their tents; but every man of them had forgotten to put on his trousers, and there they stood in the starlight, in their night-clothes, like "sheeted ghosts," trembling with cold and excitement.

As the captain and I stepped out, and his eye glanced along the line, his sense of propriety got the better of his military ardor, and he shouted out his first command:

"Confound your foolish souls, go and put on your breeches!"

The situation dawned on the men,
and with shouts of laughter they prepared for battle by putting on those needful articles of apparel. After all, it was but a false alarm, and they were soon sent to bed again.—Youth's Companion.

TOO SACRED TO TOUCH.

Stricken Down, He Lay Where He Fell
Until Death Came to His Relief.

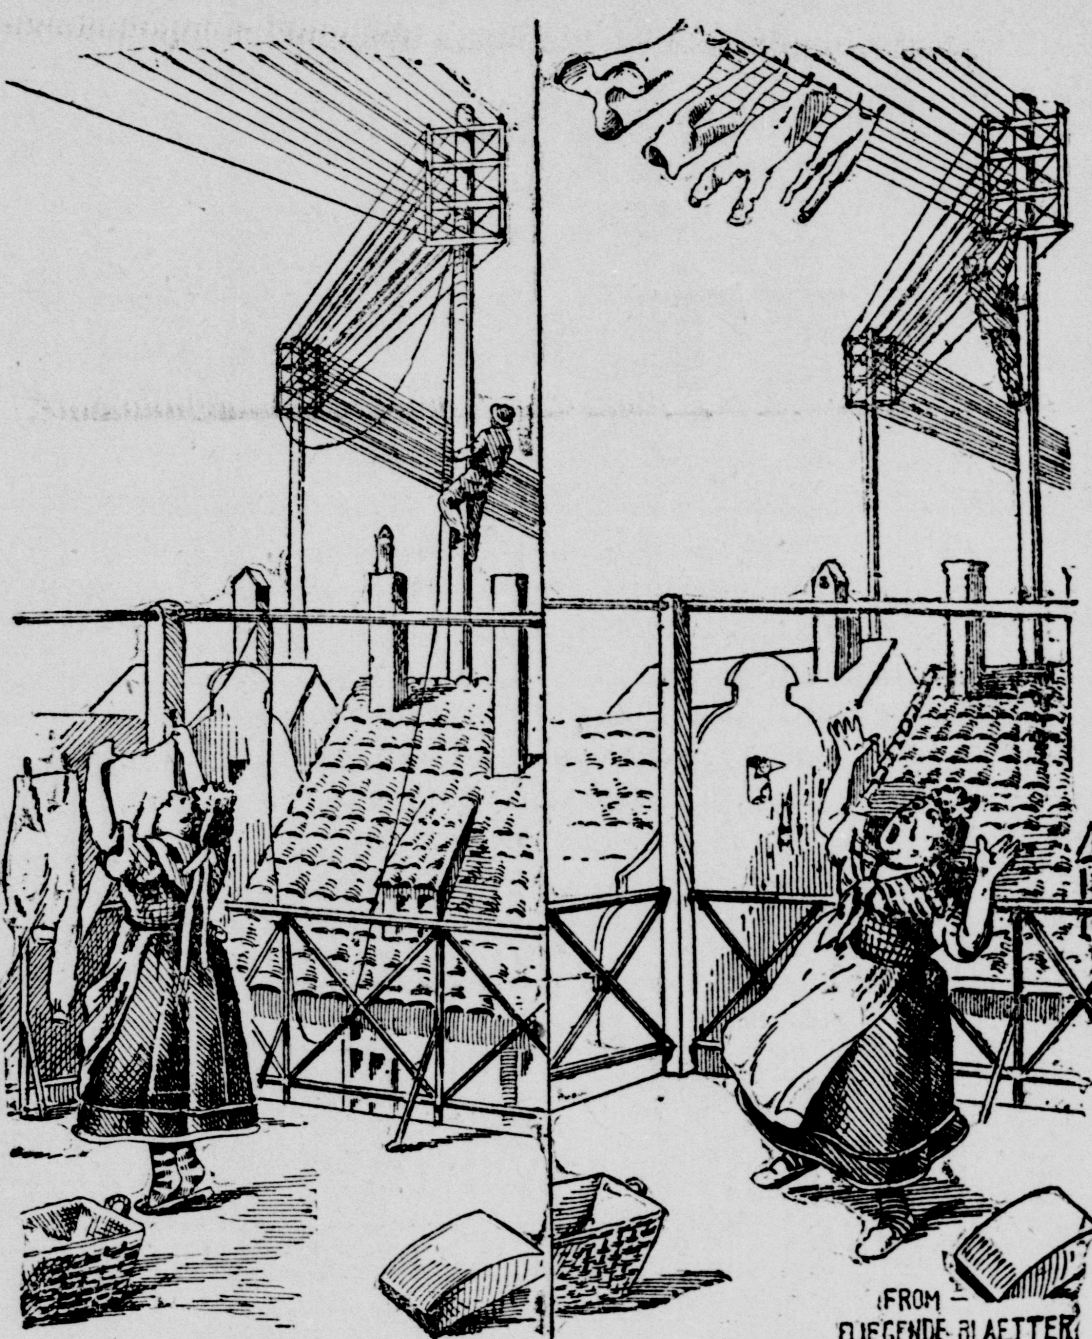

The ex-lord abbot, of the Otani
sect, who died lately at his residence in Kyoto, was the head of all the Buddhist priests in Japan. He had been suffering since the fall of last year, when he contracted a cold, which appears to have been of the character of influenza, being attended with much pain and obstinate fever, and which finally wore out the strength of the old prelate.

He does not, however, seem to have been altogether prostrated, for on the morning of his last seizure he was making his way along the corridor attended by a male servant.
The latter, seeing him fall insensible,
gave the alarm, and instantly a cluster of women charged with all sorts of duties and ceremonial offices in the house of the prelate, where a state of ceremony resembling that of a court was observed, ran to the spot. There were about twenty of these women, but so inflexible is the etiquette of the ex-lord abbot's household that in the absence of his wife not one of the attendants might venture to touch the body of the incarnate Buddha, even in the moment of his death agony. All they could do was to send a report to the official in charge of the affairs of the household and by him the tidings were conveyed to the present lord abbot, whose residence was about a furlong distant.

Some thirty minutes elapsed before the lord abbot arrived, simultaneously with a physician, and during the whole of that time the venerable old man, too sacred to be touched, however much his humanity needed tending, lay helpless on the ground. A court physician, specially dispatched by the emperor
from Tokio, had been in attendance on the old prelate during the last days of his illness, and his son, the present lord abbot, had been at his side almost continuously. Yet it was his fate to die as has been described.

His remains having been packed in vermillion, were laid in state in his residence, where the public was allowed to visit them. The ceremony commenced at 2 a. m. and continued until 3 in the afternoon, during which time more than 20,000 persons paid their last tribute to the Buddha.

On the following day the coffin
was conveyed upon a splendid chariot to the two temples of Amida Daishi, and, high mass having been

THE TELEPHONE WIRE AND THE WASHERWOMAN.

Similar simplicity was observed with respect to food distributed to the general body of mourners. It was limited to a ball of rice and a few slices of pickled turnip. The recipients of this consecrated food did not eat it. They carried it home and treasured it as a talisman against disease, distributing portions to friends, who keep it for the same purpose.

The bier, as carried in the procession, was surmounted by a golden phoenix standing on a ball of the same metal, and from each of the corners hung chains supporting swallows, also of gold. In advance walked six temple officials, representing the "six roads" of the Buddhist doctrine, the fresh bamboo
staves carried by them being em-blematical of the salvation which a Buddhist saint extends to all believers. The chief mourner was shod with hemp sandals on bare feet,
and sixteen ladies of the household
had zori of straw, also on bare feet.

Other ancient customs peculiar to this, the most solemn rite of the faith, were carefully observed, and those privileged to be present on the occasion witnessed a most impressive ceremony.

Women who want the most satisfactory glove made should buy our Brighton: it is made of fine Italian lamb-skin with four large buttons, is pique stitch, that is made with lap seams, which adds to its strength, has a quirk between the fingers, and they hold their shape longer than other gloves.
Our color line is large. The blacks are particularly nice.

What Sort Of a Piano Does The Gazette Give Away?

The Best that Money Can Buy.

Not an Upright Piano in the Market Excels the Shaw---

Few Equal It.

Piano Buyers often pin their faith blindly to certain makes of Pianos famed in the Concert Rooms. Experts tell us, however, that the upright pianos sent out by certain firms making a Specialty of Concert Grands, are far inferior to the Shaw. In such establishments the "grand" gets all the care and watchfulness and skill--- the "uprights" are turned out like so many wash tubs.

This isn't true of Shaws.

Nothing but uprights and only one grade of them are made in the big Erie, Pa., factory. The foremen of the three leading departments are three of the best men, one from Steinway's, one from Knabe's and one from Chicker-ing's factory.

They brought together the best points in construction from the three leading factories of the country. So much for workmanship. Now for material.
Here are the

Points Claimed

THE PIANO COUPONS IN GREAT DEMAND.

NEW CANDIDATES HAVE BEEN NOMINATED.

Everybody Who Has Examined the Instrument at S. C. Burnham & Co's Says the Things Said in Its Favor Well Justified—Conditions of the Contest.

Piano coupons are at a premium all around town. Besides canvassing for coupons several of the candidates are also securing the votes of those who wish to subscribe for the paper. Names of new candidates are mentioned daily and as fast as votes are received the names will be added to the published list. This is not arranged in the order of voting, but alphabetically.

Everybody who has seen The Gazette piano is enthusiastic in its praise. It has a pure ringing tone, and its action is very fine. These qualities are what would be expected of a Shaw piano and The Gazette made no mistake in choosing that instrument.

Friends of contestants show a lively interest in the success of their favorites and votes are coming in rapidly. New subscribers should be reported as fast as secured, but coupons should be tied in bundles of one hundred each and kept until the day the competition closes. Votes have been cast up to date, for the following candidates:

Baker, Bessie
Clifford, Alice M.
Eldredge, Rose B.
Frink May
Foster, Lahlie
Gifford, Alice V.
Gibbs, Maria J.
Holt, Ellen
Kenyon, Cora
Kastner, Alice
Loucks, Franc
McNeil, Anna
Peters, Nellie
Randall, Carrie M.
Wright, Ada V.

Names of other candidates will be added as fast as votes are received. Only bona fide candidates will be allowed. The rule that nobody is permitted to enter merely to represent an organized society will be strictly enforced.

From now until the contest closes a coupon will be printed in each issue of the Gazette.

1. Any one, anywhere in any state is entitled to vote as often as they buy a copy of The Janesville Gazette containing the above ballot.

2. Cut the ballot out (trimming on the dotted lines.) Write in the name of your candidate and enclose same in an envelope addressed to Ballot Editor, Gazette, Janesville, Wis.

3. Only one person can be voted for on one ballot.

4. The lady who receives the largest number of votes will receive as good and beautiful a piano as the Shaw Piano Company can make.

5. The contest will close June 30, 1894. Piano will be delivered as soon as the counting of votes is completed.

6. Any person who will bring The Gazette one new subscriber paid in advance will be entitled to the following number of ballots:

New subscriber paid in advance one month, 100 votes.

New subscriber paid in advance two months, 250 votes.

New subscriber paid in advance six months, 900 votes.

New subscriber paid in advance one year, 2,000 votes.

Each new subscriber who pays in advance and casts the number of votes specified is also entitled, of course, to cut coupons from the paper from day to day and vote in the regular manner.

No person will be allowed extra votes for stopping his paper and having it sent to another name at the same address.

In every instance they must be bona fide new subscribers.

We will be square with you, you must be square with us. No person will be allowed to stop his paper on Monday and start it again Tuesday and claim the premium offered.

The polls will close at 9:00 p. m., June 30, but votes handed in before this will be duly credited. The contest will be conducted strictly "on the square." No partiality or unfair advantage will be taken or allowed in any case.

We have sold Ely's Cream Balm about three years, and have recommended its use in more than a hundred special cases of catarrh. The unanimous answer to our inquiries is, "It's the best remedy that I ever used." Our experience is, that where parties continued its use, it never fails to cure.—J. H. Montgomery & Co., Druggists, Decorah, Iowa.

When I began using Ely's Cream Balm my catarrh was so bad I had headache the whole time and discharged a large amount of filthy matter. That has almost entirely disappeared and I have not had headache since.—J. H. Sommers, Stephney, Conn.

He Felt Confused.
"Were you ever arrested before?" asked the judge.
Meandering Mike held his hat before his face and looked sidewise at the court.
"Do ye mean that question, judge?" he asked.
"Why, certainly I mean it."
"Sure?"
"Stop your trifling and answer me."
"Scuse me, yer honor. But I can't git over yer takin' dis appearance fur me debut. Hones' now, judge, do I look like er bud?"—Washington Star.

Grounds for a Smash.
He'd always been a man of peace,
He wouldn't harm a hare;
But when a dude with cigarette
Blew smoke into his face, you bet
He smashed him then and there.
—Kansas City Journal.

WELL BROKEN IN.

Brown—Well, old man, now you've been married six months what do you think of wedded bliss?
Jones—Why, old boy, I gave up thinking for myself some five months ago.—Judge.

Rarely at a Loss.
When a man is weary telling
Of the great deeds he has done,
Then he finds a theme exelling
In the smartness of his son.
—N. Y. Herald.

A Refusal.
"No," said the young woman, haughtily, in response to his request as they sat on the porch in the twilight, "I will not let you hold my hand. I don't believe in such conduct for a young lady."
"And, besides," she added after a pause, "it isn't dark enough yet."—Chicago Record.

In the District School.
New Teacher (beginning the term, and undecided what lesson to give first)—Can any of my little pupils tell me how their former teacher began the exercises?

Tommy Jones (the worst boy in school)—She generally began by giving us a good lickin'.—Harper's Young People.

Not Quite the Same.
Mrs. Glibbe—I think your new house is a delightful one, Mr. Jones. Only yesterday I was telling my husband that I thought you were a level-headed man.

Johnny (interrupting)—No, ma, you didn't say quite that; you said flat-headed.—Judge.

The Humorist's Discovery.
Oppor—I tell you Sophocles and those old humorists knew a good thing when they saw it.

Puck—What makes you think so?
Oppor—Why, I have found several of my best jokes here shockingly translated into ancient Greek!—N. Y. World.

Sweet Charity.
Little Miss Muggs (haughtily)—My mother remembers when your grandfather used to saw wood for her mother.

Little Miss Freckles (defiantly)—I s'pose he did it for the poor ole soul, out of charity.—Good News.

A Lay View.
Mrs. Bibbs—Mrs. Crape got the insurance on her husband's life within a week after his death.

Mrs. Dibbs—Well, well! That's most extraordinary. They couldn't find any excuse for not paying it, I suppose.—N. Y. Weekly.

Succeeding Nicely.
Mr. Solicitous—I understand, George, that you are trying to pay up your debts. How are you succeeding?

George—Oh, nicely; I just succeeded in borrowing ten of my friend Cashly to pay off that five I have owed Threbal so long.—Detroit Tribune.

Equal to the Emergency.
Mother-in-Law—This is a pretty time of night for you to be coming home. My daughter is boiling mad with rage.

Son-in-Law—Boiling is she? Maybe after awhile she will learn how to cook if I keep on coming home late.—Alex Sweet, in Texas Sittings.

Very Much Alike.
The Husband—Oh, give me a rest. You remind me of a parrot.

The Wife—Why? Because I talk so much, I suppose!
The Husband—Not at all; because you never know what you are talking about.—Truth.

He Wanted to Know.
"Wonderful country!" exclaimed the Kansas man. "Why, when I moved out here it was forty miles to Brown's, my nearest neighbor."

"And how far is it to Brown's now?" put in the eastern man.—Life.

Very Unkind.
Husband—Why do you always lead that puppy about by a string? Are you afraid he'll run away?

Wife—Yes. He's not as well trained as you are!—Hullo.

A Slight Improvement.
Robinson—Does your baby cry as much as it used to?
Parker—No, not quite; the nights are getting shorter now, you know.—Truth.

SURROUNDED BY MYSTERY!

A Great Mistake.

A recent discovery is that headache, dizziness, dullness, confusion of the mind, etc., are due to derangement of the nerve centers which supply the brain with nerve force; that indigestion, dyspepsia, neuralgia, wind in stomach, etc., arise from the derangement of the nerve centers supplying these organs with nerve fluid or force. This is likewise true of many diseases of the heart and lungs. The nerve system is like a telegraph system, as will be seen by the accompanying cut. The little white lines are the nerves which convey the nerve force from the nerve centers to every part of the body, just as the electric currents conveyed along the telegraph wires to every station, large or small. Ordinary physicians fail to regard this fact; instead of treating the nerve centers for the cause of the disorders arising therefrom they treat the part affected.

Franklin Miles, M. D., LL. B., the highly celebrated specialist and student of nervous diseases, and author of many noted treatises on the latter subject, long since realized the truth of the statement, and his Restorative Nerve is prepared on that principle. Its success in curing all diseases arising from derangement of the nervous system is wonderful, as the thousands of unsolicited testimonials in possession of the company manufacturing the remedy amply prove.

Dr. Miles' Restorative Nerve is a reliable remedy for all nervous diseases, such as headache, nervous debility, prostration, sleeplessness, dizziness, hysteria, sexual debility, St. Vitus dance, epilepsy, etc. It is sold by all druggists on a positive guarantee, or sent direct by the Dr. Miles Medical Co., Elkhart, Ind., on receipt of price, $1 per bottle, six bottles for $5, express prepaid. Restorative Nerve positively contains no opiates or dangerous drugs.
